Extensive technical information on band plans, beacons, repeaters, DXCC and QSL.

A section on the ACMA rules.

This edition of the WIA Callbook is published toward the end of 2010, the year of the WIA Centenary.

Highlights

For me, I think that there have been many highlights.

One was the AGM/Centenary celebrations weekend in Canberra on 28, 29 and 30 May 2010.

Another has been the special callsign, VK100WIA, used by the WIA in May and then between 1 June and 31 October 2010 by the WIA's affiliated clubs that will have taken it in turns to use the callsign in 3 day slots. As I write this at the end of August 2010, already over 14,000 contacts are recorded on the VK100WIA on-line log. VK100WIA is the basis for the WIA Centenary Award, an award that has turned out to be very popular. The WIA has received many highly complimentary emails and letters from amateurs claiming their certificate. At the end of August over 120 awards had been issued.

The third highlight has been this. We urged the clubs, either in association with the use of the VK100WIA callsign or separately, to engage in an activity designed to promote amateur radio in their community. The WIA provided a media kit and advice to assist the clubs in getting appropriate local publicity. The highlight has been the number of clubs right across Australia who have done this, in many cases very successfully indeed.

Whenever we have had the chance, we have attempted to show to the community that amateur radio is a fascinating interest, providing very many facets to those who are interested enough to find out what it is and what interests them.

WIA Callbook 2011

The WIA Callbook is much more than just a list of callsigns and names. It has much basic information, and that is why I am referring to our efforts to explain and therefore promote amateur radio, as we hope that as a result we will see even more new radio amateurs joining our ranks.

And I hope that people thinking of joining our ranks or who have just joined our ranks will be reading this edition of the Callbook.

Amateur Radio Direction Finding

The cover of this Callbook reflects the interest in ARDF – Amateur Radio Direction Finding. That is very appropriate for 2011.

The IARU Region 3 ARDF Championships are held every two years, alternating with the World ARDF championships. The WIA will be the host society for the IARU Region 3 ARDF Championships to be held in late 2011, in regional Victoria, though the venue has yet to be finalised.

The Championships were last held in Australia in 2003, near Ballarat, Victoria, and I am sure that the event will be as much a success in 2011 as it was 2003.

Relationship with NZART

Once again the WIA's special relationship with its sister society in New Zealand, the NZART has resulted in us being able to include the NZART Callbook in the additional material on the CD accompanying the Callbook.

Thanks to...

Once again, I say thank you to the many people who make the WIA Callbook possible.

For a second year the Callbook Editor is Greg Williams. Greg did a great job last year, and with the help of designer Ivan Smith, the Callbook has a great "look".

I particularly acknowledge our advertisers who support this publication, and commend them to you.

I thank the clubs for maintaining their details on the WIA website, Ted Thrift, our Club Coordinator who continually urges the clubs to maintain those details so they are always up to date, to John Martin and the Technical Advisory Committee team who provide the technical information and provide the repeater and beacon information, indeed everyone who helped put this publication together, thank you.

The Amateur's Code

The Radio Amateur is...

CONSIDERATE... never knowingly operates in such a way as to lessen the pleasure of others.

LOYAL... offers loyalty, encouragement and support to other amateurs, local clubs, and the national organisation, through which Amateur Radio is represented nationally and internationally.

PROGRESSIVE... with knowledge abreast of science, a well-built and efficient station and operation above reproach.

FRIENDLY... slow and patient operating when requested; friendly advice and counsel to the beginner; kindly assistance, cooperation and consideration for the interests of others. These are the hallmarks of the amateur spirit.

BALANCED... radio is an avocation, never interfering with duties owed to family, job, school or community.

PATRIOTIC... station and skills always ready for service to country and community.

The original Amateur's Code was written by Paul M Segal, W9EEA in 1928.

Member's QSL Service

1. Introduction

Inward and Outward QSL services at the expense of the WIA are provided only for WIA members. Managers receive every three months a listing of all current WIA members. If a person claims to have just become a member but is not listed, the Manager should telephone or email the WIA national office to ask if the person is, in fact, a member.

2. QSL Managers

Members deal with the Inwards QSL Bureau at the address listed for their area and the national Outwards Bureau at the address listed below. The QSL Bureaux addresses are listed in the WIA Callbook, Amateur Radio from time to time and on the WIA website at www.wia.org.au under the tab "Member Services", and then "QSL Bureau", which lists the current addresses.

3. Inwards QSL

If a WIA member makes an arrangement with the local QSL Manager for their cards to be sent annually, then WIA will meet the cost of forwarding any cards received for that WIA member at their address on the membership list once a year. If, because of the number of cards and storage constraints an Inwards QSL Manager wishes to forward cards more than once in a year to a particular member, and there is no significant cost difference as a result of doing so, the WIA will also meet that cost.

Members requiring more frequent card distribution should make arrangements with the Manager to collect the cards from the Manager.

WIA members who are members of an affiliated club may either directly or through their club request that their cards be sent to them at their club. Inward QSL Managers shall send WIA member cards to their club at such times as are economic having regard to the number of cards involved, but at least once a year. The WIA will meet the cost of sending the cards to the clubs.

Members not requiring cards should notify their area QSL Manager directly.

Inward QSL Managers should retain non-members cards for at least one year before disposing of them, and should make available cards for collection by or on behalf of non-members in a manner convenient to the Manager.

4. Outwards QSL

Members should send their cards sorted in DXCC country order to the WIA Outwards QSL Bureau addressed as follows:

WIA Outwards QSL Bureau
PO Box 3073 Teralba NSW 2284

Affiliated clubs may collect cards on behalf of their WIA members and forward them in reasonable sized batches to the WIA Outwards QSL Bureau at the above address. The Outwards Bureau will confirm the WIA membership of the club members. Non-members cards will not be handled.

5. National QSL Bureau

The National QSL Bureau can be contacted at the WIA National Office

The WIA National Advisory Committee

The WIA National Technical Advisory Committee (NTAC) and the Repeater and Beacon Coordinator provide advice to the WIA and carry out certain administrative duties.

The Committee:

The NTAC is chaired by John Martin VK3KM and includes a number of volunteers. The members of the technical advisory panel provide information and advice in their particular areas of expertise. The regional advisors act as contact points and advise on technical or band planning issues that arise in their region, and also work with the TAC and the National Repeater and Beacon Coordinator in planning new beacons or repeaters.

Technical Advisors:

Band Plans; Beacons	John Martin VK3KM
Repeaters	Peter Mill VK3APO
VHF/UHF	Walter Howse VK6KZ
Microwaves	Peter Freeman VK3PF
EME	Doug McArthur VK3UM
ATV	Peter Cossins VK3BFG
Packet Radio	Barry White VK2AAB

	Peter Westerhof VK1NPW
VK2	Brian Kelly VK2WBK
VK3	Peter Mill VK3APO
VK4	Bill Sebbens VK4XZ
VK6	Eddie Saunders VK6ZSE
VK7	Rex Moncur VK7MO

Administrative tasks:

Repeater & Beacon Licensing	Peter Mill VK3APO
VHF/UHF Records; Data Bases	John Martin VK3KM

Band Planning:

One of the duties of the TAC is developing and updating the Australian national band plans. These are published in the Call Book and on the WIA web site.

VHF-UHF Distance Records:

The TAC processes record claims and maintains a data base of present and past VHF-UHF records for publication in the Call Book and the WIA web site.

Beacon, Repeater and Packet Radio Data Bases:

The TAC maintains data bases which are published in the Call Book and are also available on the WIA web site.

National Repeater and Beacon Planning:

Frequency planning and licence applications for new repeaters or beacons are handled by the National Repeater and Beacon Co-ordinator in consultation with the TAC panel. Detailed information on licensing procedures is available on the Repeater and Beacon Coordination page of the WIA web site, and from the WIA national office.

Further information:

More information is available on the WIA web site. For queries relating to band planning, record claims, or updates to the beacon, repeater or packet radio data bases, please use the email address tac@wia.org.au or contact the WIA national office.

We regret that we are unable to handle general technical queries. If you need technical advice or help in setting up or operating your station, the best place to start is your local radio club. You can find the nearest club to your location by clicking on the "Radio Clubs" link.

Aspects of Amateur Radio

ALARA (Australian Ladies Amateur Radio Association)

Like many clubs, ALARA has welcomed many new "F" licensees into the membership. These new YLs are heard on the nets, are manning stalls at Hamfests and participating in regular luncheons. Every three years an ALARAMEET is held in a different state, where long-time and new members have a chance to meet face to face with the 'voices'. The next ALARAMEET was due in 2011 but as Australia is hosting the 2012 YL International during May in Adelaide, the 2011 ALARAMEET is cancelled. ALARA is where many friendships start and are nurtured. This is ALARA's 35th year. ALARA runs regular skeds and contests

Amateur Television (ATV)

Television is one of the areas of activity where the amateur operator can still home brew some of the required equipment. With the advent of relatively cheap high quality colour cameras and television sets, this sector of the hobby is affordable. Various kits are available in Australia which makes the acquisition of some special components and construction a little easier.

Most modern television sets tune continuously over a very wide bandwidth and hence are suitable for direct reception of analogue ATV on 444.25 MHz and in some areas of Australia, 426.25 MHz. A good high gain antenna with low loss coaxial cable is essential. Many of the capital cities and a few provincial cities have ATV Repeaters which enable a much wider coverage than with simplex (point to point) operation.

On 23 cm and above, operation is FM and a cheap second hand analogue satellite receiver is required for reception. These receivers are sometimes available at Hamfests and can often be obtained at very low cost. A good pre-amplifier will be needed together with a high gain antenna and low loss coaxial cable. ATV operation can be found on all SHF frequency bands from 70 cm to 10 GHz.

The change over to digital broadcasting in Australia has meant that there are a number of set-top boxes (STB) and TV receivers that can tune to ATV frequencies on the 430-450 MHz band. Note: not all STB and TV's can. A number of amateurs have been working on digital systems and the Melbourne ATV repeater VK3RTV is now exclusively digital output. For more information check the VK3RTV website at www.vk3rtv.com.

Slow Scan Television (SSTV)

Slow Scan Television is really similar to facsimile. That is, stationary pictures are transmitted at a slow rate with a resultant reduction in the bandwidth required. As a result of this bandwidth reduction, SSTV can take place on any of the amateur frequencies and has been popular particularly on HF. An added feature of SSTV is that transmissions from various Satellites can occur.

While some amateurs have built their own SSTV systems in the past, most operators use the availability of a hamshack computer as the receiving terminal. The sound card forms the basis of the SSTV system and it will be necessary to build a small interface between the computer and the amateur transceiver. Details of suitable circuits are readily available.

There are various software packages available but many operators use MMSSTV, written by JE3HHT. Just do a Google search for MMSSTV and the site will be found. As a PC is the receiving terminal, quite high quality colour pictures can be received. If transmissions are received on HF, distortion and noise can occur due to multipathing and fading.

AMSAT – Amateur Satellites

Satellites allow you to greatly increase the range of your vhf/uhf or microwave station. Some carry FM, SSB or CW transponders. Others will allow you to communicate using packet - digital store and forward, to swap pictures or messages, much like e-mail. It is also possible to run modes like SSTV or PSK31. AMSAT operators also have the ability to talk to Astronauts on the Space Shuttle or the International Space Station.

The first question is often, "But isn't it expensive?". The FM satellites can be worked with a dual-band hand-held transceiver. A small hand-held yagi is very helpful, but not essential when getting started. AO51, SO50, ISS and the Space Shuttle are examples of easy to work 'birds'.

You will need high gain antennas and computer controlled tracking to reliably work some of the SSB birds, such as AO7 and the high orbiting birds when available. Over 60 Oscar satellites have been launched over the years. More are on the drawing board.

AMSAT – www.amsat.org is a worldwide group of Amateur Radio Operators who share a common interest in building, launching and communicating with each other through non-commercial Amateur Radio satellites.

AMSAT-Australia – www.amsat-vk.org, an AMSAT international partner, is a group of Australian amateur radio operators who also share the same common interests. Many of our members also have an interest in other space based communications, including listening to and communicating with the International Space Station, Earth-Moon-Earth (EME), monitoring weather (WX) satellites and other spacecraft.

Membership of AMSAT-Australia is free. AMSAT-Australia operates two monthly nets on various linked repeaters, IRLP and Echolink, including the AMSAT conference server. We also run an HF net which operates in the 80 m and 40 m bands. All amateurs with an interest in amateur radio satellites are welcome to join these nets. AMSAT-Australia members participate via the AMSAT-VK

Yahoo group – group.amsat-vk.org. See the website or contact Paul – VK2TXT coordinator@amsat-vk.org for details on the nets and membership.

ARISS (Amateur Radio on International Space Station)

ARISS is an educational program sponsored by NASA, the ARRL, and AMSAT and is designed to stimulate the minds of students. As an Amateur you too can become involved by approaching your local primary or high school and asking them if their students would be interested in speaking with an astronaut on the ISS as it circles the Earth at 27,000 kph.

To be assured of a contact an application must be filled out and submitted. The ARISS team will then process your application and notify you when the event will take place.

The actual linkup can be done one of two ways, by setting up a complete amateur station or via a telebridge linkup at the school. In the latter case ARISS provide all the necessary equipment free of charge and has proven very popular. The ARISS program is not only educational but is a great way to introduce our hobby of Amateur Radio to students.

For further information and assistance contact the National ARISS Co-ordinator Shane VK4KHZ at: vk4khz@bigpond.net.au or Tony VK5ZAI at: hutch@electric-web.org His web site is at <http://www.electric-web.org>

APRS (Automatic Position Reporting System)

APRS is a packet communications protocol used for disseminating live data to everyone on a network in real time. It provides a fully featured automatic vehicle location and status reporting system, weather monitoring system, messaging system and much more. This makes it perfect for the real-time tracking needs in an emergency or special event where you want to know the position of key people and assets.

APRS was designed by and is copyright to Bob Bruninga WB4APR. It was introduced at the 1992 TAPR/ARRL Digital Communications Conference.

APRS can be monitored directly from the internet at www.findu.com. Or you can set up your own station using a PC running UI-View www.uiview.org, a 2 metre FM radio listening to 145.175 MHz and a TNC or sound card.

If you don't have access to the extensive APRS VHF network you can connect UI-View directly to the internet to send & receive APRS data. If you are mobile and out of range of the APRS VHF network you can use the APRS World Wide HF Network on 10147.6 kHz USB or the International Space Station's APRS digital repeater.

Mobile APRS operation is achieved by setting up an APRS Tracker in your vehicle. A tracker is the APRS name for a GPS, TinyTrack or OpenTrack TNC, and a VHF radio. These devices connected together generate transmitted position reports. For the more adventurous there is the Kenwood TM-D710, TM-D700 & TH-D7 APRS ready radios. If you have a D-STAR radio run DPRS positioning you can also be seen on the APRS network.

As well as tracking, APRS provides the mobile operator with other functions such as APRS messaging, email, Voice Alert, SMS, weather information such as forecasts and warnings, local repeater information and an Emergency SOS beacon.

Internet connected gateway stations (IGates) link the APRS VHF & HF network to the APRS Internet System (APRS-IS), which serves as a worldwide, high-bandwidth backbone for APRS data. The best way to obtain details on APRS operation is to visit the Australian web site and join the VK APRS email conference. For details of local APRS activities follow the links from the main web site. The official Australian APRS site is www.aprs.net.au From there you can obtain more information and access state based APRS web sites. The Australian APRS email conference is available at <http://aprs.net.au/mailman/listinfo/ozaprs>

ARDF (Amateur Radio Direction Finding)

ARDF is sometimes called Foxhunting or RadioSport. It is very similar to Orienteering – but uses direction finding equipment to locate radio transmitters rather than navigating to known points on a map. It can be enjoyed at any age.

ARDF events range from a 'hidden transmitter hunt' at hamfests to International Championships, but all involve the attempt to track down a transmitter by its emitted signal.

Equipment. A basic receiver and directional aerial is all that is required. An attenuator helps determine signal strength and how close you are. This unit is called a sniffer. A pair of headphones helps.

Frequencies. Events are normally run on either HF (3.5 MHz/80 m) or HF (144 MHz/2 m) The receivers and tactics differ for each band. The 80 m ARDF event is normally easier and better suited for beginners. The 2 m ARDF event is more difficult. Reflections and signal strength are more dependent upon terrain and can fool even the experts. Equipment for this band is usually more complex.

Currently in Melbourne, ARDF events are run 4-6 times per year plus a number of informal events run for radio clubs, the scout association and similar bodies. A copy of the schedule of planned events is available from: <http://www.ardf.org.au>

More information about ARDF can be found on the internet, a good place to start would be <http://www.ardf.org.au> Those without Net access can write to the Federal ARDF Coordinator PO Box 2042 Bayswater Victoria 3153.

Amateur Radio Voice Over Internet

IRLP The Internet Radio Linking Project

IRLP is a system to link repeaters and simplex links using the Internet as a connecting medium. To access IRLP, you require an ordinary FM transceiver, with a DTMF keypad for controlling the IRLP links. No computer is required, and IRLP is designed for radio access only. IRLP supports node-node linking and reflector (multi-node conference servers) linking. IRLP reflectors 9500 and 9509 are the recommended reflectors for general national traffic and ragchewing.

To access IRLP, first, you need to be within range of an IRLP node. All IRLP nodes are listed at <http://status.irlp.net>. Once you are within range of an IRLP node, you announce your callsign and then key in the 4 digit node number of the destination node number to make the connection. While connected, you talk as normal, except for leaving a 3 second pause or longer between overs, to allow time for others to break in. To terminate the connection, hold down the PTT and press "73".

If you run into difficulties with a particular system, you can contact the node owner using <http://status.irlp.net> and clicking on the node number in the list.

or email vk3jed@vkradio.com

EchoLink

EchoLink is a Windows based system to link repeaters and simplex links using the Internet. In addition, EchoLink also allows you to access other EchoLink nodes directly from an Internet connected PC. EchoLink supports both node-node links and multi-node conferences. EchoLink conferences AUSSIE (node number 95092) and VK3JED (node number 42840) are the recommended conferences for general national traffic and ragchewing.

You can access EchoLink over the radio in a manner similar to IRLP. The main differences are that the node numbers are 4 - 6 digits long, and to disconnect, you use "#" (to disconnect the last connection to the local node) or "##" (to disconnect all connected nodes). Many, but not all RF links are listed at <http://www.echolink.org/links.jsp>. To access EchoLink from your PC, you need a suitable headset and to download and install the EchoLink application, and follow the instructions on the EchoLink web site. There are also third party EchoLink clients for Linux, Mac OS X and Java based systems.

D-STAR

D-STAR is a fully digital integrated voice and data network for VHF/UHF operation. D-STAR features two modes of operation, both of which can be used on simplex, D-STAR digital repeaters and worldwide Internet gateways. These modes are DD mode, which is a 128 kbps data only mode for 23 cm, and DV, which comprises simultaneous digital voice and low speed data in a 4.8 kbps data stream. To operate on D-STAR, you need a D-STAR capable radio. Alternatively, the DV Dongle can be used for voice operation on the D-STAR network.

D-STAR can be used for voice, DPRS (similar to APRS, but on the DV data channel), keyboard to keyboard chat and general data transmission. Both voice and data can be transmitted around the world via the gateway network.

For more information, including how to get on D-STAR and use the gateway network, see: <http://www.dstar.org.au> for Australian D-STAR information <http://www.dstarusers.org> - list of active D-STAR users and gateways <http://www.dvdongle.com> (DV Dongle)

JOTA

Jamboree On The Air (JOTA) is a Scout and Guide activity utilising amateur radio in order to contact Scouts and Guides in other places. JOTA, along with JOTI (Jamboree On The Internet) is an annual event occurring on the third full weekend in October. JOTA-JOTI is a worldwide event, with some 500,000 participants. The success of this event is made possible by the assistance given by thousands of amateur radio operators. Information about JOTA-JOTI in Australia can be found at www.scouts.com.au

Meteor Scatter

Meteor Scatter uses ionised trails from meteors to reflect your VHF signal. The FSK441 mode on the WSJT program (see below) has made meteor scatter much more popular on 2 metres with regular contacts in the range 700 to 2000 km. The equipment required for 2 metre meteor scatter is a computer interfaced to an SSB transceiver and about 100 watts to a 6 to a 10 element Yagi.

Activity sessions are held each Saturday and Sunday morning on 144.230 MHz between 0700 and 0800 local time in NSW and Victoria. After the sessions a call-back is held on 40 metres around 7083 kHz and all interested are encouraged to join in and ask questions.

Contact: Rex Moncur VK7MO rmoncur@bigpond.net.au

"Moonbounce" (Earth-Moon-Earth)

Make the ultimate of long distance (DX) contacts by bouncing your signal off the moon.

Once this form of communication was confined to those who could erect large antennae and run a lot of power, but technology advances have made this mode available for those with quite moderate installations.

The ability to generate power in excess of 100 watts on frequencies from 23 cm and upwards, along with the availability of very low cost very low noise receive preamplifiers, have even provided SSB communication with dishes as small as 4 metres.

Software advances, and the use of the Internet, have also provided a means of exchanging minimal data to effect a 'QSO'.

Contacts on frequencies as low as 28 MHz and as high as 47 GHz continue to prove an avenue for those wishing to experiment with one of the most reliable propagation mediums. For further information 'Google the web' or for local information contact Doug McArthur VK3UM tkaluna@bigpond.com

Travellers Net

There are actually two nets that aim to provide regular communications to amateur operators travelling within Australia. The long established one on 14.116 MHz and a second net started on 21.185 MHz to accommodate licensees who do not have access to 20 metres. While there is no formal linkage between the two nets, several operators work both from time to time. Both nets operate every day of the year.

The 21.185 MHz net commences at 0100 UTC and runs to 0200 UTC, usual operators are: Syd VK6SMH, Ross VK5KMH, and Len VK3NJE. Bob VK6KW is the "Acting" net controller for the 14.116 MHz net and check-ins are taken from 0200 UTC. This is followed by a callback (roll call) of all logged stations at 0300 UTC and usually a listening watch continues to 0330 UTC.

Both nets record the date, callsign, operator's name, proposed overnight destination and any relevant brief notes of each station logged. Any station wishing to contact another may arrange to do so via control who nominates a QSY frequency for individual QSOs. Messages to/from travellers will be passed as required. Or if the situation warrants eg phone service is not available, we might QSY from the net to deal with the matter.

Family and friends of travellers can enquire about their location and send messages by contacting the Net controller: Bob Lockley VK6KW, email rlockley@bigpond.net.au Home PH 08 9319 1644 with messagebank - please dictate your message, name, and number. MOB 0407 442 650 - SMS any time, or for hams, IRLP 6200 Fremantle - mainly at net times.

Other operators/relay stations include Ross VK5KMH, Len VK3NJE, Len VK3BGM, Jim VK2XI, Victor VK4WST and many others. The regular operators share logs and other info by email so most can respond to queries or pass messages as required.

WSJT

A computer program for weak signal VHF/ UHF Digital communications.

The program may be downloaded at: <http://physics.princeton.edu/pulsar/K1JT/>

The program has modes of FSK441 for meteor scatter (see earlier item) and JT65 for tropo-scatter and EME. The equipment required is a computer interfaced to an SSB transceiver. 100 watts on 2 metres and a single 10 element Yagi is sufficient to work the larger overseas stations via EME and will allow tropo-scatter contacts up to about 700 km. The JT65 mode is proving useful for EME up into the microwave region with low power EME contacts on 1296 MHz with around 2 to 3 metre dishes. Contact: Rex Moncur VK7MO rmoncur@bigpond.net.au

WICEN (Wireless Institute Civil Emergency Network)

Each state has its own WICEN which works with the emergency Services, either directly or through another agency. WICEN has seen service in floods, bushfires and cyclones. Its members practise by providing communications during car rallies, sports events, canoe marathons and such. Some formal training sessions are provided.

The International Telegraph Union (ITU)

History

The International Telegraph Union (ITU) was established on 17 May 1865.

The 1932 Madrid Conference, the Union decided to change the name of the Union to International Telecommunication Union. The new name, which came into effect on 1 January 1934, was chosen to properly reflect the full scope of the Union's responsibilities, which by this time covered all forms of wireline and wireless communication.

Under an agreement with the newly created United Nations, it became a UN specialised agency on 15 October 1947, and the headquarters of the organisation were transferred in 1948 from Bern to Geneva.

In 1992, the Union was streamlined into three Sectors, corresponding to its three main areas of activity: Telecommunication Standardisation (ITU-T), Radiocommunication (ITU-R) and Telecommunication Development (ITU-D). The new system also introduced a regular cycle of conferences to help the Union rapidly respond to new technological advances.

Objective

The objective of ITU-R is, in particular, to "maintain and extend international cooperation among all the Member States of the Union for the improvement and rational use of telecommunications of all kinds".

ITU-R

The specific role of ITU-R is as follows. ITU-R shall:

- effect allocation of bands of the radiofrequency spectrum, the allotment of radio frequencies and the registration of radio frequency assignments and of any associated orbital position in the geostationary satellite orbit in order to avoid harmful interference between radio stations of different countries;
- coordinate efforts to eliminate harmful interference between radio stations of different countries and to improve the use made of radio-frequencies and of the geostationary-satellite orbit for radiocommunication services.

Each of the three ITU Sectors works through conferences and meetings, where members negotiate the agreements which serve as the basis for the operation of global telecommunication services.

Study groups made up of experts drawn from leading telecommunication organisations worldwide carry out the technical work of the Union, preparing the detailed studies that lead to authoritative ITU Recommendations.

ITU-R draws up the technical characteristics of terrestrial and space-based wireless services and systems, and develops operational procedures. It also undertakes the important technical studies which serve as a basis for the regulatory decisions made at radiocommunication conferences.

In ITU-T, experts prepare the technical specifications for tele-communication systems, networks and services, including their operation, performance and maintenance.

ITU-D experts focus their work on the preparation of recommendations, opinions, guidelines, handbooks, manuals and reports, which provide decision-makers in developing countries with 'best business practices' relating to a host of issues ranging from development strategies and policies to network management.

Each Sector also has its own Bureau which ensures the implementation of the Sector's work plan and coordinates activities on a day-to-day basis.

Membership of ITU is open to governments, which may join the Union as Member States. In addition Non-government organisations such as Telecommunications Carriers, Equipment manufacturers, Satellite consortiums, Research and Development organisations and International and Regional Telecommunication organisations, can join ITU as Sector Members.

The IARU is a Sector member in both ITU-R and ITU-D as an International Organisation.

Radiocommunication Conference

World radiocommunication conferences (WRC) are held every four years. It is the job of WRC to review, and, if necessary, revise the Radio Regulations, the international treaty governing the use of the radio-frequency spectrum. Revisions are made on the basis of an agenda determined by the ITU Council, which takes into account recommendations made by previous world radiocommunication conferences.

Only Member States can make proposals or vote at a WRC.

The general scope of the agenda of world radiocommunication conferences is established four to six years in advance, with the final agenda set by the ITU Council two years before the conference, with the concurrence of a majority of Member States.

Under the terms of the ITU Constitution, a WRC can:

- revise the Radio Regulations and any associated frequency assignment and allotment plans.
- address any radiocommunication matter of worldwide character.
- give instructions to the Radio Regulations Board and the Radiocommunication Bureau, and review their activities.
- determine Questions for study by the Radiocommunication Assembly and the Sector's study groups in preparation for future radiocommunication conferences.

International Amateur Radio Union (IARU)

The International Amateur Radio Union was founded in April 1925 in Paris.

The objectives of the IARU are the protection, promotion, and advancement of the Amateur and Amateur-Satellite Services within the framework of regulations established by the International Telecommunication Union, and to provide support to Member-Societies in the pursuit of these objectives at the national level, with special reference to the following:

- a) representation of the interests of amateur radio at and between conferences and meetings of international telecommunications organizations;
- b) encouragement of agreements between national amateur radio societies on matters of common interest;
- c) enhancement of amateur radio as a means of technical self-training for young people;
- d) promotion of technical and scientific investigations in the field of radiocommunication;
- e) promotion of amateur radio as a means of providing relief in the event of natural disasters;
- f) encouragement of international goodwill and friendship;
- g) support of Member-Societies in developing amateur radio as a valuable national resource, particularly in developing countries; and
- h) development of amateur radio in those countries not represented by Member-Societies.

Through the efforts of several generations of internationally minded volunteers the IARU has continued to grow in numbers, stature, and influence. Today there are national member societies in 159 countries and separate territories, including 136 Member States of the ITU.

There are three regional organizations of the IARU, corresponding to the ITU Regions. The first of these regional organisations to be formed was in Region

1 in 1950 followed by Region 2 in 1964 and Region 3 in 1968. The regional organizations were formally recognised by a constitutional revision in 1975.

Each of the regional organizations holds a plenipotentiary conference every three years, on a rotating basis. The policy and management of the IARU are the responsibility of its Administrative Council, composed of the three IARU officers the President, Vice-President and Secretary together with two representatives from each of the three regions. The Administrative Council meets yearly.

Most importantly, the IARU is the recognised spokesman for the amateur and amateur satellite services at the International Telecommunications Union and at the regional telecommunications organisations; CEPT, PATU, C I TEL., and APT.

Repeater & Beacon Application Process

Overview

By agreement with ACMA and the WIA, and for orderly processing, all licence applications for amateur repeaters and beacon must be coordinated through the WIA (the National Office); this includes new services as well as amendments or variations to existing licences.

The point of contact for all amateur repeater and beacon applications is the National Office of the WIA at the address listed below. In association with the WIA Repeater and Beacon Coordinator (RABC) all applications will be acknowledged and issued with a tracking reference number, that applicants can cite when dealing with the office. This is an important aspect when determining at what stage an application is in the process. Applications sent directly to the RABC will not be considered an application and therefore will not proceed any further.

Upon receipt all applications are sent to the RABC who will assess the technical aspects of the application, selecting or confirming a frequency(s) and where necessary checking for consistency with the WIA Band Plans, and conduct the necessary EMC compatibility checks. The RABC will refer applications to the various state Technical Advisory Committee Member(s) for comment, or seek further information as necessary.

The nominated club representative may contact the RABC prior to and during the applications process to clarify technical aspects of an application.

Application steps

1. Clubs/organisations should select a person to be the nominated representative for coordinating the application with the WIA.
2. To assist the process, ACMA application form R057 Application for Licence(s) and form R077 Additional Station Information should be used. All relevant sections should be completed, but if this is not possible leave the section blank and the RABC will complete if necessary. Both these forms are available from the ACMA website.

3. To assist in understanding what is required, eg, whether the application(s) is a new one, or a variation to an existing licence, an accompanying description of what the equipment is going to be used for, where it going to be located (citing ACMA client and licence numbers if relevant). In the case of repeater links, which other repeater or site(s) are going to be linked. A sketch map is useful. The description should also include the name of the nominated licensee and the contact details of the person submitting the application.
4. The completed applications should be sent to:
Wireless Institute of Australia
PO Box 2042 Bayswater VIC 3153
5. Upon receipt all applications will be issued with a reference number for tracking purposes, and an acknowledgment letter will be sent to the nominated club/organisation representative.
6. All papers associated with the application(s) will be forwarded within one working day of receipt to the RABC, who will, after consultation with the applicant and/or the State TAC representative, complete the ACMA forms and lodge the application with the ACMA.

Process completion

Depending on the complexity or workload of ACMA staff, applications lodged with ACMA will take 14 working days to complete.

For licences for which the WIA is responsible, the WIA has an account with the ACMA and when an application has been completed, the WIA will be advised of the fees applicable for the application. The WIA will remit the monies requested and ACMA will then issue the licence(s) accordingly. It is at this point the licence will appear on the ACMA Register of Licences. Upon receipt of the printed licences from ACMA, the WIA office will forward these to the respective club/organisation.

For non WIA licences, the club or organisation will need to append a cheque to the application for the ACMA licence fees or charges. Once the licence has been issued, the licence details will appear on the ACMA Register of Licences and a paper copy will be sent to the licensee's postal address.

EMR Limits are a Licence Requirement

All amateur stations in Australia are required, through the Amateur Licence Condition Determination, to comply with Electromagnetic Radiation (EMR) limits.

These limits have been set to ensure that a transmitter is operated at safe levels for general public exposure to radiation. EMR limits also apply to other radio transmitters including mobile phones operating between 3 kHz and 300 GHz.

The regulatory arrangements address possible adverse health effects from exposure to EMR by ensuring it does not exceed limits at any location that is accessible to the general public.

Each year ACMA carries out audits of randomly selected apparatus licensees including amateur stations, asking them to attest in writing that their station is operated in conformity to EMR requirements.

The average amateur station should easily comply and requires only a self-assessment of compliance. It becomes more complicated if you use high power and gain antennas on the VHF/UHF or microwave bands.

Most amateur stations come under Compliance Level 1 which can be self-assessed and includes requirements that:

- The total average power fed to all antennas at the site must not exceed 100 watts and antennas must be out of reach
- The bottom of the lowest antenna must be at least 10 metres above ground and the average EIRP does not exceed 3200 watts

For a home installation, a simple guideline such as keeping the lowest point of an antenna at least two metres above head-height or installing the antenna at least 2.8 metres from a property boundary or other location accessible to the general public can be used.

For portable operation using a ground mounted vertical antenna, an exclusion zone taped off and signed is a common approach.

In mobile installations these separation distances cannot be achieved so the best that can be done is to install any antennas such as to minimise the possibility of accidental contact. Some users of commercial HF SSB transceivers are using warning notices on the antenna installation.

Any transmitter installations not able to meet Compliance Level 1, fall under the Compliance Level 2 category which requires a technical assessment and the keeping of records.

This briefly covers EMR for further details see the ACMA's website http://www.acma.gov.au/WEB/STANDARD/pc=PC_1818. For those wanting to check the compliance of their station with the standard, Doug VK3UM has written a program called "Site and Radiation Calculator" which is available from http://www.vk3bez.org/vk3um_software.htm

Voice Repeater Guidelines

Repeaters are established primarily to extend the communication range of mobile stations in the VHF and UHF bands, and to assist amateurs in remote locations where simplex communication is not normally possible. They can also be used as calling channels for initial contact before switching to a simplex frequency. The following are suggested guidelines to maximise the efficient and courteous use of repeaters.

Transmission time:

Keep contacts brief and to the point. Each transmission should not exceed two minutes. If you have nothing to say, don't say it! Repeaters have timers to limit transmission length. Do not reset the repeater's timer to extend your own transmission time. Before replying, let the repeater 'drop out' and wait at least three seconds before transmitting. This allows others immediate access.

Breaking in:

If you are using a repeater and another station announces its callsign during the pause, let that station go ahead immediately. He or she may have an urgent message.

To gain access to a repeater which is being used by others, announce your callsign during the pause between overs. If you have an urgent message, it is better to say so when you announce your callsign.

Calling CQ:

In some parts of Australia, it is not usual practice to call CQ on a repeater. The most common practice is to just announce your callsign. It is courteous to follow local repeater practice.

Use of Callsigns:

Avoid over-use of callsigns. They are required at the start and end of a contact, and at least once every ten minutes. But they can be dropped from the start and end of transmission during a contact. Avoid using phonetics unless they are absolutely necessary.

Reverse operation:

Use reverse facilities to observe the other station's strength, and, if satisfactory, move to a simplex channel. This keeps the repeater clear for those who may need it. Please avoid simplex operation on repeater inputs, even if the channel is not in use in the immediate area, you may key up a repeater without realising it.

It is also better to avoid using a repeater output for a simplex contact: other stations may be able to hear a repeater on the frequency even if you can't.

Poor conditions:

If your signal into the repeater is reported to be marginal copy or breaking up, do not persist in using the repeater until you are able to improve your signal.

Deliberate interference:

Ignore annoying transmissions. Do not respond to a transmission not identified by callsign, or even comment on it. If you do, it will only encourage the person causing the interference.

Crossband contacts:

The use of repeaters for liaison to establish contact on another band is reasonable, but cross-band contacts using a repeater are not encouraged. Where cross-band contacts are made, all frequencies should be announced by all parties. Priority should be given to normal repeater usage.

Courtesy:

Be courteous and unselfish at all times, and always be aware of the needs of other people who have an equal right to share the repeater. If you hear someone new to repeater operation, assist and educate them in a courteous manner. Remember that others, including new or potential radio amateurs, monitor repeaters. The image of amateur radio is important.

WIA Examination Service

There are three levels of amateur licence in Australia, the Foundation, the Standard and the Advanced.

To obtain a licence at any level, the applicant must hold the appropriate Certificate of Proficiency or hold equivalent qualifications. To obtain a Certificate of Proficiency, competency must be demonstrated by passing examinations in Radio theory, the relevant Regulations and some practical aspects of operating an amateur station.

Foundation licence

Most amateurs start out at the Foundation level and work their way up to the Advanced, although those with some academic qualifications may start at a higher level.

Foundation level training is carried out by Clubs, and comprises a weekend (or equivalent time) of learning and understanding of the required Theory and Regulations, culminating in a 25 question multiple choice exam and a practical test on operating procedures, safety and equipment recognition and operation.

Assessment testing materials are supplied by the WIA Exam Service, who record the results and issue results certificates and the Certificate of Proficiency. Assessment is carried out at the club level by Assessors accredited by the WIA.

Most Clubs appoint a 'Learning Facilitator' as the first point of contact for persons seeking Assessment (see WIA Website or Club list in this book).

Higher level licences

When upgrading to the Amateur Operator's Certificate of Proficiency at Standard or Advanced level, a greater knowledge of Radio theory is expected. The exam comprises a 50 question theory paper and a 30 question regulations paper, as well as the practical test if that has not already been awarded a 'Competent'.

Again, assessment materials are supplied by WIA Exam Service and the results processed as above.

What to expect

The WIA endeavours to process the paperwork within five working days after their receipt from the Assessors. It may then take up to four weeks for the paperwork to be processed by ACMA.

Syllabi

Syllabi for all levels of Assessment can be found under the "Become a radio amateur" Tab on the WIA website (www.wia.org.au).

A Guide to Amateur Licensing and Regulation

Introduction

The Australian Communications and Media Authority (ACMA) is the Australian Government agency responsible for the regulation and licensing of amateur radio activity within Australia. This guide to amateur licensing and regulation is published with the consent of ACMA. The WIA gratefully acknowledges ACMA's support in preparing this guide.

The information provided is a guide only and the legislation and licensing policy related to the Amateur Service should be checked for full and current information on the ACMA website.

International Background

The ITU is today a United Nations specialised agency comprising 191 Member States concerned with international cooperation in the use of telecommunications and the radiofrequency spectrum. The Australian Government is a signatory to the international treaty-level ITU Constitution and Convention.

The basic ITU treaties are augmented by the Radio Regulations and the International Telecommunication Regulations, which are also treaty instruments.

Amateur radio has been recognised internationally since the earliest international conventions on radiocommunications. Article 1 of the General Regulations annexed to the International Radiotelegraph Convention, Washington, 1927, defined "amateur station" as:

"A station used by an "amateur", ie., by a duly authorised person interested in radio technique solely with a personal aim and without pecuniary interest."

The essential element of the definition, the concept of "a duly authorised person interested in radio technique solely with a personal aim and without pecuniary interest" has remained part of the definition since the first international regulation of the service.

Today the Radio Regulations of the ITU define the amateur service as follows:

S1.56 Amateur Service: A radiocommunication service for the purpose of self-training, intercommunication and technical investigations carried out by amateurs, that is, by duly authorised persons interested in radio technique solely with a personal aim and without pecuniary interest.

The basic international rules for the amateur service are found in Article 25 of the Radio Regulations.

But international treaties do not apply directly to individuals in Australia. Radiocommunications in Australia is primarily governed by the Commonwealth Australian Communications and Media Authority Act 2005, the Radiocommunications Act 1992 and subordinate legislation made under the Radiocommunications Act 1992. These pages outline the Australian position.

What is an Amateur licence?

The Australian Communications and Media Authority (ACMA) is Australia's regulator for broadcasting, the internet, radiocommunications and telecommunications. The ACMA administers spectrum use through the provisions of the Radiocommunications Act 1992 (the Act).

ACMA allocates access to the radiofrequency spectrum through one of three licence types: Spectrum; Apparatus or Class licences. The Amateur Service falls within the Apparatus licence type of the Non-Assigned category.

An amateur licence is issued to authorise a station that:

- is operated for the purposes of self-training in radiocommunications, intercommunication using radio- communications and technical investigation into radiocommunications by persons who do so solely with a personal aim, and who have no pecuniary interest in the outcome of the operations of the station;
- is operated on frequencies or frequency bands allocated to the amateur service in Australia; and service in Australia; and
- may participate in the Amateur-satellite service.

The amateur service is designed primarily to facilitate hobby radiocommunications and for technical experimentation and operates on specified frequency bands.

Amateur radio operators communicate via a number of transmission modes including, but not limited to, Morse code, telephony and data.

Anyone can listen to the Amateur bands using a receiver, but to transmit, operator qualifications and a licence issued by ACMA, are required.

The Amateur licence type is defined in the Radiocommunications (Interpretation) Determination 2000.

Examinations and Certificates of Proficiency

On 2nd February 2009, through contractual arrangements with the ACMA, the WIA has been delegated to conduct assessments for all amateur operator qualifications and issue certificates of proficiency. The assessment arrangements build upon the existing processes for the conduct of training courses and assessments offered by many amateur radio clubs around Australia. As part of the arrangements, the cost of issuing certificates of proficiency has been built into the assessment fees and certificates will be issued once all the units have been successfully completed. The WIA has also taken responsibility for issuing replacement certificates that it has issued since 2nd February 2009 that have been lost or damaged. Further information can be found on the WIA website. The replacement of qualification certificates issued before this date will be made by the ACMA.

Recognition of Prior Learning Assessment

The WIA in issuing an Amateur Operators Certificate of Proficiency, upon application may consider relevant qualifications and experience, as part of its assessment process.

The WIA will not issue an Amateur Operators Certificate of Proficiency on the basis of RPL unless the candidate has passed at least one part of an approved examination, and ordinarily two parts, namely the practical assessment and the regulations qualification.

What is Recognition of Prior Learning?

Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) is an assessment process that recognises competencies you currently have, regardless of how, when or where the learning occurred. This includes competencies attained through any combination of formal or informal training and education, work experience or general life experience.

In order to apply for recognition of prior learning you must provide evidence that addresses and meets the requirements for an Amateur Operators Certificate of Proficiency Theory. Your evidence may take a variety of forms and must include:

- Certificates and/or qualifications achieved
- References from past employers
- Testimonials from clients and previous work samples
- Substantiated Curriculum Vitae

To be able to grant RPL the Nominated Assessor must be confident that the applicant is currently competent against all assessment objectives within the ACMA syllabus document and must ensure that submitted evidence is authentic, valid, reliable, current and sufficient.

Who Can Apply?

RPL is for full examinations only. Partial RPL will not be considered, RPL does not apply to the Foundation Licence.

How does the RPL process work?

Evidence that is presented by the applicant is matched to the performance criteria contained within the ACMA syllabus applied for. The evidence is assessed using the following criteria:

- Is the prior learning relevant to the course and does it address the performance criteria specifically?
- Is the knowledge and skill current?
- Is it authentic and can be verified?
- Is the knowledge and skill appropriate to the level of the unit?

The WIA process will involve a WIA allocated Nominated Assessor and the WIA RTO who will make a final determination.

A Nominated Assessor may interview each candidate.

Outcomes of RPL

There are three possible outcomes of RPL. These are:

- RPL granted
- RPL declined due to insufficient evidence where further evidence will be requested
- Not yet competent.

How long will it take to be informed?

You will be notified of the outcome within 20 working days of the RPL application being lodged at the WIA Office.

What is Credit Transfer?

Credit transfer recognises any formal qualifications you have achieved. You will need to provide a copy of the qualification and a list of the units achieved. These must match the units you are mapping against. If the units are from a

Table 1 – Amateur licensing options

Advanced	The Advanced licensing option allows operation on all bands allocated to amateurs in Australia. This licence replaces the Unrestricted, Intermediate and Limited licences. Power limit: 120 watts Py and 400 watts Px.
Standard	The Standard licensing option allows restricted operation on the 3.5, 7, 14, 21, 28, 52, 144, 430, 1240, 2400 and 5650 MHz amateur bands. This licence replaces the Novice and Novice Limited licences. Power limit: 30 watts Py and 100 watts Px.
Foundation	The Foundation licensing option allows restricted operation on the 3.5, 7, 21, 28, 144 and 430 MHz amateur bands. Power limit: 10 watts Px all permitted modes.
Repeater	The Amateur Repeater licensing option authorises the operation of stations that automatically re-transmit transmissions from other amateur stations. Amateur repeaters are used to improve the communications coverage of the amateur service. They are usually sited to take advantage of terrain characteristics that enhance coverage. They may employ either two-frequency (receive information transmitted from amateur stations on one frequency and re-transmit it on another) or single-frequency (receive and transmit on the same frequency using information storage and delayed transmission techniques) operating modes. The frequency channel assigned by ACMA will normally accord with channel arrangements developed by the Wireless Institute of Australia (WIA). Normally, all applications for proposed repeater services are expected to be endorsed by the WIA. Amateurs may only gain access to repeaters that have input and output frequencies within bands authorised under the amateur's own licence.
Beacon	Amateur Beacons are used by other amateur stations, principally for the purpose of identifying propagation conditions, that is, the effect the earth's atmospheric layers and space have on radiofrequency emissions.

similar / earlier qualification you will need to map these and discuss with the relevant WIA Nominated Assessor.

Application forms for RPL at the Standard and Advanced Level may be downloaded from the WIA website

The ACMA, the Australian Regulatory Authority issues all amateur station licences. The ACMA may grant exemptions of qualification under certain circumstances. See below.

Licensing Options

The amateur licensing options are detailed in Table 1.

Qualifications

Article 25 of the Radio Regulations requires administrations to verify the operational and technical qualifications of any person wishing to operate an amateur station. Under the Radiocommunications Act 1992, ACMA has determined that persons must be qualified operators to operate transmitters under an amateur licence. The relevant qualifications for each amateur licensing option are listed in Table 2.

Table 2 – Certificates of proficiency requirements for amateur licensing options

Licensing option	Minimum qualifications required
Advanced	Amateur Operator's Certificate of Proficiency (Advanced) (AOCP(A)); or Amateur Operator's Certificate of Proficiency (AOCP); or Amateur Operator's Limited Certificate of Proficiency (AOLCP).
Standard	Amateur Operator's Certificate of Proficiency (Standard) (AOCP(S)); or Novice Amateur Operator's Certificate of Proficiency (NAOCP); or Novice Limited Amateur Operator's Certificate of Proficiency (NLAOCP).
Foundation	Amateur Operator's Certificate of Proficiency (Foundation) (AOCP(F)).
Repeater and Beacon	Amateur Operator's Certificate of Proficiency (Advanced) (AOCP(A)); or Amateur Operator's Certificate of Proficiency (AOCP); or Amateur Operator's Limited Certificate of Proficiency (AOLCP). Amateur Operator's Certificate of Proficiency (Standard) (AOCP(S)); or Novice Amateur Operator's Certificate of Proficiency (NAOCP); or Novice Limited Amateur Operator's Certificate of Proficiency (NLAOCP).

For the purposes of issuing an Australian Amateur Station licence, the ACMA recognises certain licences or qualifications issued by a foreign administration. Details of these can be found in Tables 3 to 6.

The WIA will not issue an Australian AOCP on the basis of these arrangements.

The ACMA and the WIA do not recognise the following Australian or equivalent foreign Qualifications for issuing an Amateur Station Licence or an AOCP. The reason for this is that these qualifications do not cover all the technical and demonstrated practical aspects in the operation of an amateur station as required by the agreed syllabus.

Minimum age

Amateur station licences will be issued to any person who demonstrates at examination that he or she possesses the necessary knowledge and skills.

Licence Conditions Determinations

ACMA may determine, by written instrument, conditions relating to apparatus licences. These conditions are known as Licence Conditions Determinations or LCDs.

The Radiocommunications Licence Conditions (Apparatus Licence) Determination 2003 contains licence conditions that are common to all apparatus licences.

The core conditions applicable to amateur licences are contained in the Radiocommunications Licence Conditions (Amateur Licence) Determination No. 1 of 1997 (the Amateur LCD). These conditions define the purpose of an amateur station including the type of communications permitted, with whom the operator is permitted to communicate, callsign usage and relevant transmission parameters.

One of the conditions of a licence is the allocation of an Amateur Station call sign for on air identification purposes. Call signs are not an "entity" in their own right, and only exist with a valid amateur station licence.

The licence conditions imposed through the relevant LCD may change from time to time.

Conditions which apply to an individual licence will be printed on the licence under the heading 'Special Conditions'. Special Conditions, for example, may authorise a licensee to use a higher power than that provided for in the Amateur LCD for Earth-Moon-Earth communications.

Notes providing information relating to an amateur licence will be printed on the licence under the heading 'Advisory Notes'.

Duration

Apparatus licences may be issued for periods varying from one day to up to five years. The most common period is one year.

About Renewal of Licences

All apparatus licences will have an expiry date – this is displayed on the licence document. Approximately four to six weeks before the licence is due to expire, a renewal notice will be sent to the last valid postal address that the ACMA has on record. It is the licensee's responsibility to keep your postal and residential address current with the ACMA to receive renewal notices. The ACMA is not required by legislation to send reminder notices for the renewal of licence, but does so as a courtesy reminder and to facilitate payment of the renewal fee.

If a licence is not renewed on or before the indicated expiry date, an expiry notice is sent to the last known postal address after ten days as a final reminder and to inform the licensee the subject licence has expired. Technically if a person still operates their station after the expiry date, continued operation is considered to be operating without a valid licence and the licensee could be subject to regulatory action for unlicensed operation. Further, if for example you enter a contest or gain that long awaited DX contact while technically unlicensed any claims would be rendered void.

Administratively, apparatus licences can be renewed by application in writing six months before the expiry date to 60 days after that date. After this period the licence no longer exists and the call sign attached to the licence can be placed on the WIA's Public call sign list and re-allocated. See below the "New Arrangements for Obtaining a Amateur Station Call Sign"

About Transfers of apparatus licence

Under the Act Apparatus licences may be transferred between parties. To transfer a licence the subject apparatus licence must be current at the date of transfer. It should be noted, however, that amateur licences can only be transferred to persons having the appropriate qualifications. The transfer arrangements do not apply to licences that were held by deceased amateurs. See below for more information.

There are a number of limitations on the transfer of apparatus licences. The Radiocommunications (Transfer of Apparatus Licences) Determination 2000 specifies these limitations. A device authorised by the transferred licence is still required to operate under the same technical conditions (including transmission site) specified on that licence. ACMA policy requires that, in the case of amateur station licences, the transferee must hold the appropriate amateur qualifications.

There is no legislative restriction on the number of amateur licences a person can hold, other than those licences must be valid.

How to Transfer a Licence

Licensees wishing to transfer an apparatus licence should complete and submit to ACMA, the form entitled Application for Transfer of Apparatus Licence(s) (R060), which is available on the ACMA website see: Home\Forms and online system\Radiofrequency \spectrum forms. Applicants are required to pay a transfer charge to cover ACMA's administrative expenses.

Amendments to the Amateur LCD

It is ACMA's practice to consolidate its legislative instruments. As a result, all amendments are incorporated in the current published version of the relevant instrument, including the Amateur LCD. The current Amateur LCD may be found on the ACMA website as well as on the WIA website.

Location of Amateur Stations

All amateur licences will have the following special condition relating to the location of the station attached. The condition states: 'This licence authorises the operation of a (licensing option) Amateur station at (address of station).'

Callsigns

Callsigns are a unique combination of letters and numbers allocated to a radiocommunications user to identify a station. Callsigns must be used for all on-air communications including testing. Table 7 shows callsign construction. Table 8 contains information about the callsign templates allocated to the amateur licensing options.

Table 7 – Amateur callsign construction

VK	Prefix allocated for amateurs in Australia
$	State Indicator – number 0-9 – indicates State or Territory in which the station is operating. 0 = Antarctic 1 = Australian Capital Territory 2 = New South Wales 3 = Victoria 4 = Queensland 5 = South Australia 6 = Western Australia 7 = Tasmania 8 = Northern Territory 9 = Australian External Territories.
aa, aaa or aaaa	Suffix of two, three or four letters - the first letter in the three or four group indicates the licence type of the amateur station transmitting. For example, VK$Taa - 'T' signifies that the amateur transmitting this callsign holds an Advanced licence. See Table 8 for details.

Note: State indicators ($) are used to indicate a station's licensed location. When an amateur moves interstate to live, he or she will be issued a new callsign to indicate the new State or Territory of residence.

Allocation of VK9 Prefix Callsigns

The following arrangement for Amateur callsign allocation and licensing in the External Territories (VK9) reflects the arrangements applicable to VK1-8 areas. Callsigns allocated to Amateur licences authorising operation in the External Territories will no longer contain a letter indicating a specific operating location. The callsigns will continue to reflect the licence category (Advanced, Standard or Foundation).

All licences issued to visiting overseas Amateurs will be issued for a period of one year unless a short term licence is specifically requested. Short term licences will continue to be subject to an automatic renewal bar.

All licences issued to authorise operation in the External Territories (VK9), other than those issued to visiting overseas Amateurs, will be issued for the period requested by the applicant. Unless a short term licence is specifically requested, the licence will not be subject to an automatic renewal bar. This provision applies regardless of whether the applicant is a visitor or permanent resident or does not provide a 'station address'. Where a station address cannot be provided, for example on an uninhabited island, the station location will be the name of the island.

As, under the above provisions, there will be no differentiation between visitors or permanent residents, all VK9 licensees, including overseas visitors, will be able to operate under the portable provisions of the Amateur Licence Conditions Determination in any External Territory or mainland state or territory.

New Arrangements for Obtaining an Amateur Station Call Sign

From the 2nd March 2009, under a contractual arrangement between the ACMA and the WIA, the WIA has taken responsibility for the management of amateur station call signs, including repeaters, beacons and special call signs. Before applying for an amateur station licence from the ACMA, you will first need to apply to the WIA to obtain a call sign recommendation.

The WIA has established a public electronic list of available call signs on its website. The list of available call signs is updated daily.

Simple Guide for Obtaining a Selected Call Sign Recommendation from the WIA

Step 1

If you wish to apply for a licence from the ACMA and don't care what call sign you receive, you can download an application form (Level One) from the WIA Website. If, however, you want to select a particular combination of letters in your call sign go to step 2.

Step 2

Go to the WIA Public List of Available Call Signs

Step 3

Select a particular State, then select the type of licence, then select either two, three or four letter combination and then select Search. A list of available call signs will be displayed at the bottom of the page. If you don't select any letters all available call signs will be displayed – this can be quite large. In the case of two letter call signs, due to demand you may not see any call signs displayed. This means that in a particular state there are none available and you will have to try again the following day(s).

Step 4

At the bottom of this page you can download an application form depending on the type of licence you will be applying for or requesting of variation of an existing amateur station licence (change of call sign).

Step 5

Complete the selected Application for a call sign and forward this to the WIA to the address indicated on the form. Further instructions are attached to each particular form.

Step 6

Upon receipt of the application form and money, the WIA will issue and post a recommendation certificate to you. This certificate must be attached to the ACMA licence application form (R057) and forwarded to the ACMA for licence processing. As part of the WIA business rules, is a delay period of seven working days before a recommendation certificate is issued. This is an in-built safety period where former holders of a particular call sign, who have allowed their ACMA licence to lapse, can make an application to the WIA stating a case for the return of the call sign.

The WIA application fees for a call sign recommendation certificate are as follows:

Level One

[Next any available callsign] $5 including GST;

Level Two

[Selected two, three or four letter callsign, except two letter callsigns in Vic, NSW & QLD] $20.60 including GST;

Level Three

[Two letter callsign Vic, NSW & Qld] $48.85 including GST;

Level Four

[Special Callsigns] At an hourly rate of $67.80 including GST, computed in blocks of ten minutes. See Special Event call sign section below.

Note: These fees were under review at the time of Callbook publication.

For a Club or Repeater/Beacon callsign recommendation form, please contact the national WIA office during office hours.

Payment may be made by cheque or money order, or by credit card by completion of the card details on the form or by telephone to the WIA office, or included in the moneys accepted by a WIA Assessor in accordance with the Assessment Instructions.

For a more detail explanation of the management of call signs please refer to the WIA website.

Restrictions on the Issuing of Amateur's Callsigns (Deceased Amateurs)

Arrangements are in place to preclude the callsign associated with a recently deceased amateur's licence from being routinely reissued for a period of two years following the expiry of the licence.

The two year reservation period, in respect of the re-allocation of a deceased amateur's callsign cannot commence until the licence period has elapsed. This has the result that, if a licensee renewed a licence for a period of five years, and died shortly after doing so, the callsign may not be re-allocated for up to seven years.

Partners, next of kin, or executors of a deceased amateur's estate, may write to the WIA requesting that the callsign associated with a deceased Amateur's licence be released prior to the end of the reservation period. Any such approach could simply request the release of the callsign, or it may nominate a particular person, whether a family member or a friend of the deceased amateur, to whom the callsign could be issued.

Once the two year reservation period has elapsed, and the deceased amateur's callsign is available for re-issue, it may be allocated to the next amateur seeking a callsign. These callsign will be placed on the Public Callsign List on the WIA website.

Special Event Call signs

The Amateur LCD provides that licensees may substitute the prefix AX for the prefix VK on Australia Day 26 January, Anzac Day 25 April and World Telecommunication Day 17 May.

Allocation of the VI Prefix

This prefix is only available for occasions of special State or local significance during such times when this prefix is not required by ACMA for use by other services.

Use of the 'VI' prefix will usually involve 'VI' being substituted for the normal 'VK' prefix. The allocation of specific 'VI' prefix callsigns for individual particular events, where the callsign does not comply with usual amateur callsign construction (V1$aa, V1$aaa or V1$aaaa) (where $ is the State indicator)) cannot be guaranteed. Only requests for the allocation of the 'VI' prefix from clubs, organisations or amateur groups will be considered.

Requests for special event callsigns will not be accepted for the purposes of:

- gaining an advantage in on-air competitions; or
- for use during Islands on the Air (IOTA) competitions, DX expeditions, or fox hunts and the like; or
- annual events.

Use of the IYA - IYZ Suffix Group

The IYA - IYZ suffix group will continue to be reserved for use by groups wishing to commemorate United Nations' declared years, for example, International Year of the Child ('IYC').

Jamboree of the Air stations

Jamborees of the Air (JOTA) are annual activities where amateurs assist Guides Australia and Scout Associations to use Amateur radiocommunications devices to make contact with similar organisations throughout the world. In line with normal licensing arrangements, all stations must be licensed under the appropriate amateur licensing option. Appropriately qualified amateurs must be in control of the stations. If an amateur wishes to change his or her callsign for JOTA, he or she should apply for a short term licence with a callsign from the block reserved for Guides Australia (VK$GGA-GGZ) or Scout Associations (VK$SAA-SDZ). ACMA charges a fee for short term licences.

A Guide to Amateur Licensing and Regulation

Use of callsigns

When making a single transmission from an amateur station (other than an amateur Beacon station or amateur Repeater station), a licensee must transmit the callsign of any station being called, or communicated with, followed by his or her own callsign at the beginning and end of the transmission. For a transmission that lasts more than ten minutes, the callsign must be transmitted at least once during each period of ten minutes in the transmission, by voice (using the English language), by visual image or by an internationally recognised code.

If making a series of transmissions from an amateur station (other than an amateur Beacon station or amateur Repeater station) to a station with which communications have been established, the licensee must transmit the callsign of the station being called, or communicated with, followed by their own callsign at the beginning and at the end of the series of transmissions and by voice (using the English language), by visual image or by an internationally recognised code. For a transmission that lasts more than ten minutes, the licensee must transmit the callsign of the station being called or communicated with, followed by the callsign of the licensee's station at least once during each period of ten minutes in the course of the series, and by voice (using the English language), by visual image or by an internationally-recognised code.

When operating an amateur repeater station or amateur beacon station a licensee must transmit the callsign allocated to the station by ACMA at least once in each period of ten minutes of operation of the station.

Operating Frequencies No Longer Available for Amateurs

Certain frequencies, either generally or in specified locations, previously available for amateur operation are no longer available. The Amateur LCD should be consulted for current frequency allocations and area exclusions.

Restrictions on Operating Amateur Stations in the Frequency Band 420 MHz to 430 MHz in Certain Locations

The Amateur LCD prohibits the operation of Amateur stations in certain defined segments of the frequency band 420-430 MHz in certain locations. The areas affected are defined as the 'New South Wales, the Australian Capital Territory, and the Jervis Bay Territory', the 'Sydney Area', the 'Perth Area' and the 'Melbourne Area'.

The Amateur LCD should be consulted to check the areas and the frequencies involved.

Restrictions on Operating Amateur Stations in the Frequency Band 50 MHz to 52 MHz

Licensees of Amateur Advanced, Beacon and Repeaters stations must not operate their Amateur stations in the frequency band 50 MHz to 52 MHz if they cause interference to the reception of television channel 0 VHF transmissions.

In addition, if such a licensee operates an Amateur station in New South Wales, Victoria, Queensland, Tasmania, the Australian Capital Territory or the Jervis Bay Territory, the Amateur LCD prescribes certain additional operational and geographical restrictions on the licensee.

The licensees must operate in the frequency band 50.000 MHz to 50.300 MHz only, using:

- emission mode 200HA1A and a maximum transmitter power of 100 watts pY; or
- emission mode 1K12F1D and a maximum transmitter power of 30 watts pY; or
- emission mode 4K00J3E and a maximum transmitter power of 100 watts pX.

In addition, the affected station must be at a place that is:

- at least 120 kilometres from a television channel 0 main station; and
- at least 60 kilometres from a television channel 0 translator station; and
- at least 60 kilometres from a television translator station that has inputs on television channel 0.

News and Information Transmissions

The Amateur LCD authorises the transmission of news and information related to the operation of Amateur stations. Such transmissions must be used as a means of facilitating intercommunication. Such transmissions must not be, or include, an advertisement, and must not include any form of entertainment.

Third Party Authorisation to Operate Station

An amateur may authorise another person (a third party) to operate his or her station, if the person has the same or higher qualification, or an overseas equivalent qualification. For example, a licensed Advanced amateur operator may only issue a third party authorisation to another amateur operator to operate the station if the other amateur is qualified to operate an Advanced amateur station. This means that the other person must have an Australian qualification to that level, or hold an overseas qualification that is considered to be equivalent to that level.

A person authorised to operate an amateur station must only operate the station under circumstances applicable to that station. For example, while a licensed Standard amateur may issue a third party authorisation to a person who is qualified to operate as an Advanced amateur, that third party may only operate the station to Standard amateur conditions.

Who may Operate an amateur station.

Subject to certain important exceptions, the licensee must ensure that his or her amateur station is operated only by a person who has the appropriate certificate of proficiency or an equivalent overseas qualification.

That general rule does not apply to an amateur repeater station, or an amateur beacon station; or an amateur station using automatic mode (including, for example, packet mode and radioteletype mode), or an amateur station using computer controlled mode (including, for example, packet mode and radioteletype mode, or an amateur station at a remote location.

The effect of a number of the provisions in the Amateur LCD, including the definition of "operate", is to allow a person who is not "qualified" to "talk over" a Standard or Advanced amateur station, including causing the transmitter to transmit or cease transmitting using a button or "VOX" and allows the training and assessment of potential amateurs using Standard or Advanced stations, and the "operation" of the Australian station by another Standard or Advanced station (or overseas equivalent) by an Internet connection.

Foundation licensees cannot operate (that is, 'control' as opposed to 'use') a Repeater station.

Foundation Stations

A number of provisions apply specifically to Foundation stations.

In particular, the output power of a Foundation station is limited to 10 watts in all permitted modes.

A Foundation licensee cannot operate his or her station using automatic mode or computer controlled mode. A Foundation licensee cannot use digital modes.

A Foundation licensee must not operate a station directly connected to a public telecommunications network, though he or she may be indirectly connected to a public telecommunications network through another licensee – for example through a gateway connected to the Internet.

Amateur Beacons

All amateur beacons operated by one licensee at a site may now be authorised under a single amateur licence authorising an amateur beacon station. Under such an arrangement, it is necessary for all amateur beacons to operate under the same callsign. Where different callsigns are required, every beacon will have to be licensed separately.

Amateur Repeaters

All amateur repeaters operated by one licensee at a site may now be authorised under a single amateur licence authorising an amateur repeater station. Under such an arrangement, it is necessary for all amateur repeaters to operate under the same callsign. Where different callsigns are required, every repeater will have to be licensed separately.

Use of Repeater stations

A licensee must ensure that he or she only operates through a repeater or linked repeaters where the repeater's output frequency is allowed under that persons own licence, though the frequency of any repeater link is not relevant.

Repeater Cross-Linking

Amateur groups may be granted approval to permanently cross-link repeater stations subject to the following requirements:

- linking should not be carried out in the same Amateur band or in bands below 50 MHz; and

A Guide to Amateur Licensing and Regulation

- links shall only be activated when a received signal is present at one of the 'linked repeaters'.

Establishment of temporary links will only be considered for WICEN, WIA news broadcasts or similar activities.

All links associated with the above Amateur Repeaters may also, providing they operate within Amateur spectrum, be authorised under the associated Amateur Repeater licence.

Internet Linking Systems

Amateur Advanced, Standard and Repeater Stations may be directly or indirectly connected to a public telecommunications network provided that the licensee has implemented reasonable measures to ensure only appropriately licensed persons access the station (see Amateur LCD Section 11A).

In addition licensees of amateur Advanced and Standard stations who connect a person from a public telecommunications networks to the station (e.g. 'phone patching') must take action to ensure the person being connected knows that his or her transmissions will be overheard. The person must also be given the opportunity to not proceed with the connection (see Amateur LCD Section 11B).

Foundation licensees are not authorised to connect a foundation station directly to a public telecommunications network. However, foundation stations may be indirectly connected to a public telecommunications network through a gateway operated by another licensee.

Further information about amateur internet linking systems (AILS) can be obtained from the ACMA AILS fact sheet.

Club Stations

Clubs, schools, colleges, institutes, or similar organisations, may apply for a licence to establish an Amateur station. The organisation must nominate a qualified person who will be responsible for the supervision, operation and control of the station.

Two special conditions are attached to club stations. The text of those special conditions is as follows:

'This Amateur station is a club station and must be operated in accordance with the Radiocommunications Licence Conditions (Amateur Licence) Determination No. 1 of 1997 that equates to the qualifications held by the operator of the station.'

'The licensee of a club station shall keep a log book in which must be entered:

- a. chronological record of all transmissions;
- b. the frequency and type of emission used;
- c. the station(s) communicated with; and
- d. the name and callsign of the qualified person operating the station.'

Third party traffic

The phrase 'third party traffic', in relation to amateur radio refers to a message passed from one amateur to another on behalf of, or to, another person who is not an amateur.

While 'third party traffic' is generally not restricted, licensees should respect any restrictions applied to amateur stations in foreign countries (see Section 5, including the Note, of the Amateur LCD).

It should also be noted that, while Australia does not consider messages passed between two amateurs on behalf of a third amateur to be third party traffic, other countries may.

High power transmissions

To enable experimentation involving earth moon- earth communications, holders of Advanced Amateur licences may apply to ACMA to use a transmitter power higher than that permitted under the Amateur LCD.

Applicants should be aware of the following requirements:

- The applicant must be the holder of an Advanced amateur licence.
- ACMA's form R077 (Additional Station Information) may be used to provide supplementary information.
- High power operation will only be approved for experimentation involving the reflection of signals from a celestial body.
- Operation must be in amateur bands above 50 MHz.
- The applicant must satisfy ACMA that the proposed signal levels from the station comply with the radiofrequency emission limits stipulated in the ARPANSA standard (see footnote).
- ACMA may inspect the station at any reasonable time.
- The maximum period of approval will be 12 months or the duration of the current amateur licence, whichever is the lesser.

- Extensions of the approval for up to 12 months may be granted if the applicant certifies that the station has not changed in any way since the last approval for high power operation was granted.
- The means of approval will be by the inclusion of special conditions on the amateur's licence.
- The applicant will be responsible for all costs including licence variation fees and station inspection fees.
- The amateur must notify ACMA of any station changes, which may affect conformity with the ARPANSA standard.
- Applicants should be aware of the provisions of the Radiocommunications Licence Conditions (Apparatus Licence) Determination 2003.

Note: ARPANSA standard means the Radiation Protection Standard for Maximum Exposure Levels to Radiofrequency Fields - 3 kHz to 300 GHz published by the Australian Radiation Protection and Nuclear Safety Agency and assigned the number ISBN 0-0642-79400-6.

The ARPANSA standard may be obtained from the Australian Radiation Protection and Nuclear Safety Agency website <http://www.arpansa.gov.au>

Spurious emission limits for amateur stations

Amateur operators must also comply with International Telecommunication Union (ITU) requirements for amateur stations. The maximum permitted spurious emission power level is calculated by subtracting the following values of "attenuation" from the transmitter power supplied to the antenna transmission line.

Type of service	Attenuation (dB) below the power supplied to the antenna transmission line
Amateur services operating below 30 MHz (including those using SSB)	43 + 10 log (PEP), or 50 dB, whichever is less stringent
All other amateur services	43 + 10 log (P), or 70 dB, whichever is less stringent

Where P = mean power in watts supplied to the antenna transmission line.

PEP = peak envelope power in watts supplied to the antenna transmission line.

Spurious emissions from any part of the installation, other than the antenna and its transmission line, shall not have an effect greater than would occur if this antenna system were supplied with the maximum permitted power at that spurious emission frequency.

Interference

A feature of domestic environments is the widespread use of radiocommunications equipment such as television, radio and regulated non-broadcasting transmitters, including those used for the Citizen Band (CB) and amateur services. Interference to domestic television and radio receivers often arises from the operation of nearby CB and amateur transmitters. The interference from CB and amateur transmitters generally occurs from faults in a transmitter, or because the radio and television receiving equipment is unable to reject unwanted CB or amateur transmissions, even though those transmissions are on different frequency bands from those used by radio and television stations.

Equipment standards and licensing conditions ensure that CB and amateur transmitters meet stringent quality requirements; however, radio and television receivers vary in quality and many do not have a high level of immunity from interference. The Act defines interference in relation to radiocommunications as:

'interference to, or with, radiocommunications that is attributable, whether wholly or partly and whether directly or indirectly, to an emission of electromagnetic energy'.

Devices are defined as a radiocommunications transmitter, any other transmitter, a radiocommunications receiver or any other thing, any use or function of which is capable of being interfered with by radio emission. Section 197 of the Act also provides that:

'A person is guilty of an offence if:

- a. the person engages in conduct; and
- b. the person is reckless as to whether the conduct will result in:
 - i. substantial interference with radiocommunications; or
 - ii. substantial disruption or disturbance of radiocommunications.'

ACMA interprets 'substantial interference' as that level of interference that degrades domestic television and radio reception, under normal conditions, by a considerable degree. ACMA encourages operators of CB or amateur equipment and persons suffering interference to their television and radio services to resolve the problem by mutual agreement and assistance. In dealing with unresolved interference, ACMA takes account of factors including:

A Guide to Amateur Licensing and Regulation

- whether good installation practices have been followed by the transmitter operator;
- whether the location of the transmitting antenna is, within practical constraints, consistent with minimisation of interference;
- whether the fitting of a filter at the domestic television or radio would reduce the interference;
- whether, in the case of an amateur transmitter, the output power of the transmitter could be reduced to resolve the interference; and
- whether, in the case of an amateur transmitter, the frequency of operation could be changed to resolve the interference.

Persons suffering from interference to their television or radio reception may attempt to resolve interference by applying various self-help principles, which are outlined in the following brochures:

- Better Television And Radio Reception - provides general advice to people who are having trouble with television and radio reception
- CB Radio Interference and your Audio Equipment - helps determine why this type of interference may be occurring and the steps that may be taken to resolve the problem.

Where persons suffering from interference to their television or radio reception have not attempted to resolve the problem by applying the measures suggested by ACMA, ACMA may decide to take no further action to resolve the interference. If the transmitter operator has not attempted to resolve the interference caused by the offending equipment, ACMA may decide to restrict the operation of the transmitter or take regulatory action pursuant to the provisions of the Act.

Encoded transmissions

A licensee must not transmit signals that are encoded for the purpose of obscuring their meaning except for the purpose of controlling the operation of an amateur satellite, or controlling the operation of an unattended amateur station or when providing emergency communications or an emergency communications training exercise.

Emergency procedures

Distress signals

Use of the distress signal indicates that a ship, aircraft or person is threatened by grave and imminent danger and requires immediate assistance. The radiotelegraphy distress signal consists of the group •••••••• (SOS), transmitted as a single character. The radiotelephony distress signal consists of the word 'MAYDAY'.

Distress call and message

The distress call consists of:

1. the distress signal sent three times;
2. the words 'THIS IS' or 'DE'; and
3. the callsign or other identification of the station in distress, sent three times.

The distress message consists of:

1. the distress signal SOS (radiotelegraphy) or MAYDAY (radiotelephony);
2. the name, or other identification, of the station in distress;
3. particulars of its position;
4. the nature of the distress and the kind of assistance required; and
5. any other information which might be of assistance.

For a list of written characters and corresponding Morse code signals refer to the ACMA document entitled Morse Code Signals.

Obligation to accept distress traffic

A distress call or message has absolute priority over all other transmissions and may be heard on any frequency. Consequently, operators in the amateur service should be prepared to accept such traffic at all times.

When a distress call is heard, you must:

1. immediately cease all transmissions;
2. continue to listen on the frequency; and
3. record full details of the distress message (the information should be recorded in writing and, if possible, by tape recorder).

If a distress message is received, defer acknowledgment for a short interval to see if the message has been received by a station better placed to render assistance. If the distress message is not acknowledged within a reasonable time, the amateur operator is obliged to assist.

Notifying appropriate authority

After acknowledging or attempting to acknowledge receipt of the distress message, you should immediately forward details of the distress situation to:

1. for land based distress situations - the nearest police station;
2. for air or sea based distress situations - AusSAR Rescue Co-ordination Centre, Canberra, ACT. The telephone number for Aviation Rescue services is 1800 815 257 and Maritime Rescue services is 1800 641 792. These lines are open 24 hours; or
3. any other appropriate authority.

You should resume listening and keep the respective authority informed of any developments. Any assistance practicable should be given until cessation of distress traffic is announced (by means of the operating signals 'QUM' in radiotelegraphy or 'SEELONCE FEENE' in radiotelephony), or until you are advised that assistance is no longer required.

For a list of written characters and corresponding Morse code signals refer to the ACMA document entitled Morse Code Signals.

Urgency signals

In cases where the use of the distress signal is not fully justified, the 'URGENCY' signal may be used. In Morse radiotelegraphy, the urgency signal consists of three repetitions of the group 'XXX', sent with the letters of each group and the successive groups clearly separated from each other. It shall be transmitted before the call.

In radiotelephony, the urgency signal consists of the group of words 'PAN PAN', each word of the group pronounced as the French word 'panne'. The urgency signal shall be repeated three times before the call.

The urgency signal has priority over all other transmissions except distress. All stations hearing an urgency signal should:

1. ensure that they do not cause interference to the transmission of the message that follows; and
2. be prepared to assist if required.

For a list of written characters and corresponding Morse Code signals refer to the ACMA document entitled Morse Code Signals.

Applying for an Apparatus Licence

Applications for an apparatus licence may be made to the ACMA Office in Canberra at the following address:

National Licensing and Allocations Branch
PO Box 78 Belconnen ACT 2616
Telephone: 1300 850 115
Facsimile: (02) 6219 5347
Email: lais@acma.gov.au

Applicants should complete ACMA form entitled Application for Apparatus Licence(s) (R057), which is available on the ACMA website under 'Radiofrequency spectrum forms on the forms & online systems' tab at www.acma.gov.au

When applying for an amateur licence a callsign recommendation certificate from the WIA is also required.

Fees

Spectrum is a valuable resource. Fees are intended to ensure a fair return to the Commonwealth for the private use of this valuable public resource. Licence fees are set having regard to spectrum location, geographical location, amount of spectrum occupied and coverage area authorised by the licence.

Detailed information about fees is provided in the Apparatus Licence Fee Schedule booklet is available from the ACMA website.

Licence fee exemptions

Where an amateur station is used to assist an exempt body, that licence may be exempt from the payment of licence fees. The following special condition will be attached to any licence for which an exemption has been granted on the basis of assisting an exempt body:

'A transmitter may only be operated under this licence for the sole or principal purpose of assisting a body to which subregulations 5(7) or 5(8) of the Radiocommunications Taxes Collection Regulations apply.'

If you believe that your station may qualify for an exemption, contact the ACMA Office listed below. You will need to complete an Application for Licence Fee Exemption or Concession (R038) form and the exempt body will need to verify that you are operating your station solely or principally to assist it. Under Radiofrequency spectrum forms on the Forms & online systems tab of www.acma.gov.au

For further information see Licence Fee Exemptions and Concessions on the ACMA website.

Contacting ACMA

If you have any additional queries relating to any licence type, please contact: National Licensing and Allocations Branch (NLAB), ACMA, Canberra. If you have an existing licence please quote your client number or licence number; these are printed on your licence.

Visiting Amateurs Guidelines

Amateurs Visiting Australia

Overseas amateurs visiting Australia may now operate for up to the first 90 days of their visit, without applying for a licence or making any payment.

They may do so under a class licence, issued by the Australian Communications and Media Authority (ACMA), the Radiocommunications (Overseas Amateurs Visiting Australia) Class Licence 2008. Visiting amateurs wishing to operate for longer periods must apply for an apparatus licence, and pay the required licence fees.

This note addresses only the class licence.

The class licence, which sets out all the conditions applicable to the operation of a station by an overseas amateur visiting Australia, may be found on the WIA's website, www.wia.org.au.

The class licence sets out five levels of operating privilege, ranging from the privileges equivalent to the Australian Advanced licensee through to a privilege restricting operation to the band 146 to 148 MHz and employing only low power FM voice.

The operating privileges for a visiting amateur depend on the qualification or licence held by the visiting amateur. The overseas license and the conditions that the holder must operate under in Australia are listed in ACMA's table of equivalent qualifications and licenses.

The table of equivalent qualifications and licenses may be found on the ACMA website.

Importantly, if a licence or qualification is not listed, then at least the visiting amateur can use the low power, FM voice privileges – which really means access to the Australian two meter repeaters.

So every amateur from every country may at least operate in Australia.

The visiting amateur may be asked to produce evidence that he or she entered Australia less than 90 days before operating the station, and holds an appropriate overseas amateur licence or qualification.

When operating in Australia the overseas amateur station must identify using his or her own home callsign, followed by the suffix VK followed by the word "portable" and the location of the station.

Note that this is the reverse of most of the rest of the world – see the note on Australian Amateurs Visiting a CEPT Country.

Australian Amateurs Visiting CEPT Countries

Australia is now a party to the CEPT (European Conference of Postal and Telecommunications Administrations) recommendation T/R 61-01 which permits the holder of an Australian Advanced class radio amateur licence to operate in over 30 countries without having to first obtain a local licence. This arrangement covers both CEPT countries and even non-CEPT countries like W, ZL, ZS and VE.

This arrangement is intended for short visits, typically one to three months.

Before you go, you should:

- Check that your Australian licence shows that it qualifies as a CEPT licence. Licences renewed since Australia joined the CEPT arrangements show this. (Advanced Station licences issued from 4 June 2008 include an Advisory Note in English, French and German that indicates that the licence accords with the CEPT Recommendation T/R 61-01. Amateurs holding licences without that Advisory Note may apply for a replacement licence.)
- Check what national licence class in the country you want to visit is equivalent to your licence.
- Check what are the operating privileges and regulations covering the use of that national licence class in the country to be visited.
- Use the appropriate prefix which has to precede your own personal Australian callsign.

The key point is that the operating privileges for the visitor operating under the CEPT Licences are defined by the country being visited, not your operating privileges in Australia.

Some of the 48 members of CEPT have NOT implemented the CEPT licences. Just because the country is listed as a CEPT country does not mean it has adopted the CEPT licences. And any country can add extra conditions to the CEPT licences. These conditions will be shown as footnotes to the equivalence table e.g. in T/R 61-01 Appendix II. For example, Estonia requires that a visitor use a local regional prefix.

Have a look at the tables in either of the CEPT documents (URLs below) and you can see that the equivalent local licence class is listed for each of the countries which have adopted the CEPT licences. So as an example, having found out that your Australian licence is included in the table in T/R 61-01, Appendix IV and you want to travel to Germany, you turn to the table in Appendix II and look up the entry for Germany which says that German licences 1,2, and A apply. Then you go to the DARC website and look up the operating privileges which apply. Likewise if you plan on coming to the UK then the licence class which applies is the UK Full licence and operating details are available from RSGB and Ofcom websites.

The administration of CEPT takes place at the European Radiocommunications Office (ERO) in Denmark and so to check these things go to the ERO website.

The main ERO page is www.ero.dk

To access the T/R 61-01 CEPT document, enter 'T/R 61-01' in the search facility at www.ero.dcdb.dk

Scroll down the page to the relevant documents or quicker just use your browser to 'search in the page' for '61-01'. You can then download the text of these agreements or just look on line. If you click on the 'Implementation' button a new page opens which shows which countries have adopted the agreements and any special conditions if any.

You should identify your station using the national prefix and any secondary locator if any, then a forward slash, '/', followed by your home VK callsign.

Appendix II of T/R 61-01 tells you the prefix which you should append to your personal Australian call (VK'x'aaa) when you are in Germany, so your callsign becomes DL/VK'x'aaa' or in the UK M/VK'x'aaa'.

Finally, when travelling you should carry your VK licence with you showing that it is recognised by CEPT.

Note 1:

Series allocated to an international organization.

Note 2:

Three letter codes beginning with Q are for communication abbreviations, the Q code. Therefore Q is not used as a callsign prefix.

Note 3:

Half-series allocation.

Note 4:

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation operates the vast majority of its stations with call signs beginning with CB. This is through a special agreement with the government of Chile, which is officially assigned the CB prefix.

WIA Awards Program Information

WIA Awards Manager: Eddie DeYoung VK4AN

WIA Awards Committee: VK3EW, VK4DMC, VK6APK

WIA Director responsible for Awards Program: Chris Platt, VK5CP

All correspondence to: PO Box 2042 Bayswater Victoria 3153

Email: awards@wia.org.au

Awards website: <http://www.wia.org.au/members/awards/about/>

Preface

To make the awards program more relevant and desirable to today's award hunters, a complete revision has taken place. The Awards Committee has carefully considered input from many sources and come up with what they consider to be the best award program in the world of amateur radio.

Those awards that have had very little interest have been dropped and the application form streamlined. Rules have been simplified and are easier to understand.

List of Awards

- WIA Centenary Award – Note: This award is only available until 30 January 2011. To find out more visit: <http://www.wia.org.au/newsevents/centenary/award/>
- DXCC – available in Open/CW/Phone/Digital modes as well as Single-band
- 3 band DXCC
- 5 band DXCC
- 7 band DXCC
- 9 band DXCC
- WAVKCA-HF / HAVKCA-HF
- Antarctic
- Grid Square
- VHF Century Club
- WAS-VHF
- WAVKCA-VHF

* QRP endorsement available for all above awards

General Information for All Awards

- Applications are to be posted to WIA Headquarters or emailed to awards@wia.org.au.
- All applications must use the official form. These can be downloaded, in Excel format, from the WIA website: <http://www.wia.org.au/members/awards/about/> There are free programs available that will read/write in the EXCEL® format (.xls)
- Contacts for the awards must all be made from within the boundaries of a single DXCC entity.
- All QSOs must have been made since 1 January 1946.
- Applicants are required to possess QSL cards as confirmation for all QSOs claimed.
- Do not send QSL cards with application. However, all QSLs must be in possession of the applicant and may be requested at anytime.
- A valid QSO, for HF award purposes:
 - must be made from and to, land-based, or permanently moored vessels [proof required], using direct terrestrial propagation via the same mode and band without assistance of the internet or anyone for each claimed contact.
 - QSOs made on 'nets' are acceptable as long as the basic QSO information [callsign & signal report] is exchanged and confirmed unassisted.
 - Contacts made via any other means are not acceptable, such as cross-band, via a repeater, airborne, IRLP, or any other means that is deemed to be unacceptable by the Awards Committee.
- Prearranged contacts [skeds] or via 'nets' are acceptable as long as the other criteria are met.
- Electronic QSL methods such as eQSL and LoTW are not accepted as confirmation of QSOs. All paper QSLs must be in the possession of the applicant.
- All information supplied in an application for an award must be accurate and truthful.
- The information listed on application must accurately match the information on the QSL cards.
- Email or postal addresses must be provided by witnesses that are not amateur radio licensee's for ease of contacting them should the need arise.
- Dates must be in the format shown on the application [d-m-yy, ddmmyy, dd-MMM-yy are all acceptable].
- Contacts must be entered on the form as instructed on each award application.
- Data sheet must be signed either by an officer of an IARU member society, two licensed radio amateurs or such other person(s) that may legally witness an application as true and correct [such as Police Officer, Senior Public Official, Lawyer, etc]. The name, as well as position/title or callsign of the persons signing the declaration, and date signing the declaration must be included on each sheet. Electronic applications are deemed to have been signed by the witnesses.
- QSOs may be made using multiple callsigns providing each call used was issued to the applicant at the time of the claimed QSO(s) and all contacts were made from the same DXCC entity. Scanned copy of multiple licenses may be requested to prove the license(s) was/were issued to you at the time of the claimed QSO(s).

- All QSOs claimed must be on bands/sub-bands/modes/power-levels permitted by the licensing authority for that class of license at the time of the contact.
- All individual contacts must have been made using the same mode & band in both directions.
- Awards are available in the following modes: OPEN, CW, PHONE and DIGITAL.
- Mode definitions:
 - OPEN: any mix of modes may be used
 - CW: commonly known as "Morse code" ... but is more technically defined as interrupted continuous wave; MCW [modulated CW...'Morse code' transmitted as a single-interrupted- audible-tone on a steady carrier frequency]
 - PHONE: SSB, ISB, DSB, AM, FM, NBFM, PM and other forms of voice transmission/reception.
 - DIGITAL: RTTY [FSK/AFSK], PSK, AMTOR, FACTOR, OLIVIA, CLOVER, JTnn, SSTV*, HELL, and all other forms of digital transmission/reception.

* Note: although SSTV mode can be either analog or digital, all versions are in the Digital category. If in doubt, contact Awards Manager for a ruling.
- Club and Society Stations may also apply for awards. Certificates will be awarded to the Club. An officer of the club or society must sign the application, indicating their position.
- QRP endorsement is available for all awards. QSL cards must clearly indicate that the applicant's power was 5 watts or less output. Description of QRP transmitter and method used to measure output power must be provided.
- If one or more QSL card is requested as part of the processing procedure, they may be posted by airmail (with return postage or 1 IRC and return envelope) or scanned and emailed as attachments in ".JPG" format and of a high enough DPI to be clearly viewed.
- Applications that are considered unacceptable by the Awards Committee will be rejected and the applicant notified of the reason for rejection. The rejected application can be resubmitted once the reasons for rejection have been corrected. An application rejected three (3) times will not be further considered.
- The award .xls file is a dynamic master file that is used for processing, updated and returned to the applicant for use for the next update. This master file is also transferred into our award master database.
- We follow the ARRL Rules for DXCC approved & deleted entities and operations.
- Signatures of witnesses are not required on electronic applications, but, each witness must understand that they may be contacted to verify that they have witnessed the application as being accurate and truthful.
- Decisions of the Awards Committee are final and not subject to dispute.

Rules applicable to DXCC Awards

- The basic DXCC award is available for confirming 100 or more approved DXCC entities.
- DXCC awards may be endorsed for SINGLE BAND, SINGLE MODE, QRP, SWL based on applicant data.
- Holders of new and existing DXCC awards may apply for endorsements.
- Applications for increased totals are to be made in multiples of 25 from 100 to 325; thereafter in single units.
- The WIA DXCC Honour Roll achievement endorsement is issued to applicants who have confirmed nine less than the total on the DXCC entity list.
- The WIA DXCC Excellence achievement award is issued to applicants who have confirmed the total DXCC entity list at time of application.
- Direct two way un-assisted contacts via Satellites (SAT) is available as from 1st of March 1965 as a unique award. Satellite assisted contacts are not valid for any other award.
- Should an entity be deleted from the DXCC list by the ARRL, credit for that entity will be allowed if worked before the date of deletion but will be indicated for credit only in the "deleted Country" category.
- DXCC rankings will be published in Amateur Radio magazine, and updated on the WIA website on a regular basis. If you do not want your call in the listing, then contact the Awards Manager. When a listing is no longer licensed or has died, the entry will be removed at the first opportune time.
- The DXCC ranking list will show two numbers in determining the ranking: (1) total, minus deleted credits, (2) total including deleted credits, e.g. 200/220 meaning 200 current entities and an extra 20 that have been deleted at some time, but were worked before the date of deletion.
- Awards are available in the following categories:

• Open [mix of bands]	• Single band
• 3 band	• 5 band
• 7 band	• 9 band
• VHF
- Single-mode awards must include 100 or more DXCC entities exclusive to the mode claimed.
- Multi-band awards must include 100 or more DXCC entities exclusive to the bands claimed.
- Single-band awards must include 100 or more DXCC entities exclusive to the band claimed.
- For clarity, the 'common' name is used to indicate the type of modulation. Mode

WIA Contests

Contests can be an exciting part of Amateur Radio activity. They can sharpen your operating skills while giving you the satisfaction of competing and knowing how your station performs. WIA provides several challenging Contests each year (see Table below). Rules are published in the WIA's monthly journal, Amateur Radio, one or two months prior to the Contest. They are also on the WIA web page. Results are published as soon as they are received.

As well as Australian contests, details of many overseas contests are published in the monthly Contests column in Amateur Radio magazine.

The Contests page on the WIA web site is: <http://www.wia.org.au/members/contests/about/>

Please contact the WIA Contests Coordinator for any further help. You can email him at contests@wia.org.au

The following contests are conducted by the WIA or affiliated clubs.

To Claim a Record

To make a record claim, please ask for a copy of the file VHF Record Claims, which contains the terms and conditions and a claim form. This material can be downloaded in PDF format from the WIA web site. Details required are date, time, frequency, mode, signal reports, and some details of equipment used. Station locations MUST be given in degrees, minutes and seconds. Six digit locators are acceptable only for distances over 5000 km. Claims must be accompanied by original QSL cards or certified copies. If original cards are sent, they will be returned. Other material will be retained.

The decision of the WIA on all claims will be accepted as final.

Record claims should be posted to:

The Chairman, WIA Technical Advisory Committee, PO Box 2042, Bayswater, Vic 3153.

Email enquiries can be sent to tac@wia.org.au

A list of all past Australian VHF-UHF records is also available - please ask for a copy of the file VHF Records History. This file can also be downloaded in PDF format from the WIA web site.

Great Circle Maps Notes to accompany the maps on the WIA Callbook CD

These maps were generated using AZ_PROJ mapping software and have been reproduced by permission of the authors, Joseph Mack NA3T and Michael Katzmann NV3Z. The source code of the AZ_PROJ software is freely available and may be downloaded from the AZ_PROJ web site: <http://www.wm7d.net/azproj.shtml> Anyone may also generate their own maps online at the same web site.

The CD contains two sets of maps, one for HF and the other for VHF. They are all in the form of 72 dpi GIF images, which provide a reasonable compromise between resolution and file size. They are intended for printing on A4 paper.

See below for a full list of the maps, including the co-ordinates and Maidenhead locators of their centre points.

World Great Circle Maps – 2500 km per cm (35 maps)

These maps display the whole world with a radius of 2500 km per cm and should be printed in portrait mode. To avoid cluttering the maps, details such as placenames and geographical features have been omitted.

The maps use a limited range of colours:

- Black for national boundaries and brown for state boundaries (some countries only);
- Green and blue for major rivers and lakes;
- Yellow for compass bearings (at 15 degree intervals);
- Red for the equator and latitudes 30 and 60 degrees from the poles, and for the Greenwich meridian.

There are 35 world maps in all. If your location is not amongst them, use the nearest one - the error in beam headings will be quite small. If you wish to obtain a map customised for your precise location, see below.

VHF Maps – 250 km per cm (72 maps)

These maps have a radius of 250 km per cm and extend 2500 km from the centre point. They contain similar information to the world maps, but with the addition of Maidenhead locator fields. To make best use of an A4 size sheet, these maps have been rotated 90 degrees, so they will come out sideways when printed in portrait mode. (Do not print them in landscape mode, or a portion of each side of the map will be lost.)

Because of the narrow beamwidth of VHF antennas, maps are provided for 72 different locations. If your location is not too far from the nearest one, the beam heading error should be quite small. However for microwave work you may wish to download a map with a smaller radius and customised for your precise location.

Maidenhead Locators – Key Maps

Also included with the VHF maps are two Maidenhead Locator maps:

- “Locator Fields Aust - NZ” shows the locator fields for Australia, New Zealand and nearby areas.
- “Maidenhead Locators” explains the Maidenhead locator system.

Downloading Your Own Maps

The AZ_PROJ web site also allows users to generate and download their own maps online. The site offers two options, the Short Form and the Long Form. The Short Form allows the user to customise the centre position, the continents to be included in the map, the output format, and the scale. The available scales range from 50 km per cm (map radius 500 km) up to 10,000 km per cm (whole world fits in 4 cm).

The Long Form allows generation of maps with additional details including place names, locators, geographical features, grey line, DXCC and IOTA, and even the details of beacons, repeaters and broadcast stations for some countries.

When downloading files from AZ_PROJ, the most suitable formats will usually be GIF or PNG. Other formats like PDF are also available, but they require an extremely large print buffer and may be unprintable unless your computer has a very large amount of RAM.

Maidenhead Locators

LOCATOR FIELDS: The world is divided into 18 x 18 locator fields, each covering an area 20 degrees east – west and 10 degrees north – south. The naming of these fields begins with AA at 180 degrees west and 90 degrees south, and ends with RR at 180 degrees east and 90 degrees north.

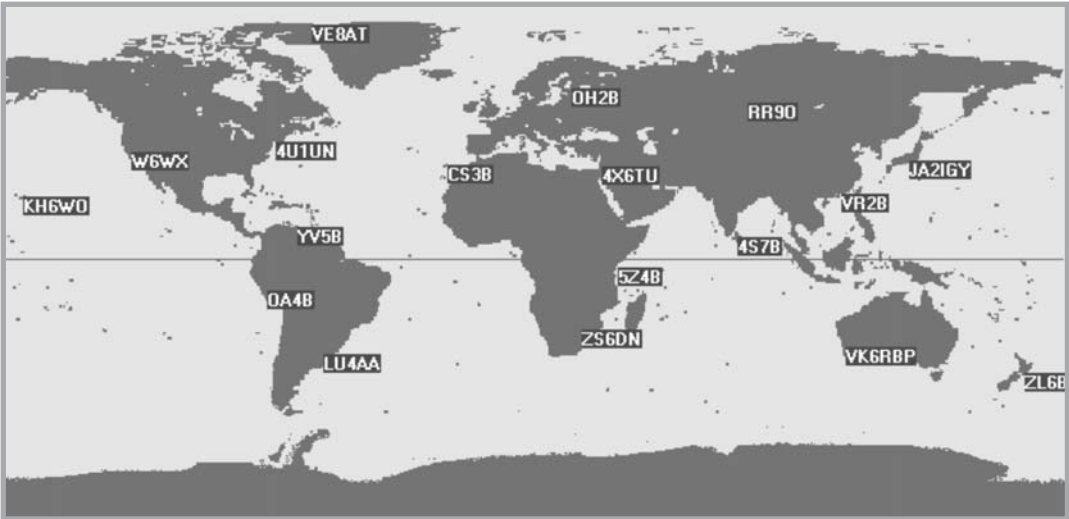

The example shown here is the field QF, which covers 140 - 160 degrees east and 30 - 40 degrees south. The centre of this field is at 150 degrees east and 35 degrees south, and the grey circles show radial distances at 100 km intervals from this point.

LOCATOR SQUARES: Each locator field is divided into 100 squares (actually rectangles), which each cover 1 degree N – S and 2 degrees E – W. The numbering of these squares starts at the SW corner of the field. In this example, Sydney is 5 squares to the east and 6 to the north from the starting point of the QF field, so its 4 digit locator is QF56.

SIX DIGIT LOCATORS: For accuracy down to only a few km, locator squares can be further subdivided into 24 x 24 sub-squares by adding two extra digits from aa to xx. For example, the 6 digit locator for Sydney is QF56oc.

The IBP HF Beacon Network

IARU and the Northern California DX Foundation (NCDXF) sponsor a series of beacons which operate on the 20, 17, 15, 12 and 10 metre bands. All beacons are GPS controlled and transmit for ten seconds every three minutes. The transmissions consist of the callsign (at 22 wpm), followed by four one-second dashes. The callsign is sent at 100 watts, and the four dashes are sent at 100, 10, 1 and 0.1 watts. These 10 dB power steps are precise and are useful for S meter calibration and judging band conditions. For more information and updates on the status of each beacon, contact the Northern California DX Foundation, P.O. Box 2368, Stanford, CA 94309-2368, USA, or on the Internet go to www.ncdxf.org/beacons.html.

WORLDWIDE 10 METRE BEACONS: An up-to-date list of worldwide 10 metre beacons can be found at the “Andre’s Beacons” web site – http://www.mydarc.de/dl8wx/baken_kw.htm

The following table shows the frequencies and timeslots of the beacons.

Introduction

Spectrum Management

International spectrum management is the responsibility of the International Telecommunications Union (ITU). The ITU Radio Regulations allocate separate bands for each service such as fixed, mobile, broadcasting or amateur. Some bands are shared by more than one service.

When bands are shared, services designated “Primary” are entitled to full protection from interference caused by secondary services. Secondary services must tolerate interference from primary services operating in the same band, and not cause any interference to primary services. Other services may also be permitted to share bands with primary and secondary services on a non-interference basis.

Each ITU member nation implements the Radio Regulations within its borders. Most member nations follow the ITU allocation tables fairly closely, although they do have the right to make variations to suit local requirements. In Australia, spectrum management is the responsibility of the Australian Communications and Media Authority (ACMA). It determines frequency allocations and licence conditions for all transmitting stations in Australia and its territories.

Amateur Self-Regulation

Amateurs use a wide variety of different modes. Within one amateur band, activity can include CW, voice, satellite and EME activity, and ATV. The best way of avoiding clashes is to set aside different band segments for each of these activities, so that all amateurs can pursue their interests without interference.

Amateur band plans are voluntary agreements, often known as “Gentlemen’s Agreements”. They are sponsored by the WIA, but they are for the benefit of all amateurs. Most amateurs - WIA members or not - abide by the band plans because it makes sense to give everyone a fair go. Clashes still occur at times, and the usual reason is lack of awareness of the band plans. Most amateurs are willing to change frequency if the problem is explained to them politely.

Band Planning Guidelines

Band plans need to satisfy a number of conflicting criteria:

- They should take local conditions into account, but they should be consistent with international usage.
- They should encourage spectrum efficiency, but they should also ensure that all modes have their fair share of spectrum space.
- They should take the popularity of each mode into account, while still providing enough spectrum space for less popular activities. For example, ATV requires far more bandwidth per operator than other modes; and activities such as EME are of major importance regardless of the number of stations involved.
- Band plans must be flexible enough to adapt to changing needs, but they tend to lose support if they are changed too often. The aim must be to think ahead and to make sure that future options are not closed off.

Mode Compatibility

Some modes require exclusive band segments, but others can coexist with similar modes in the same part of the band. On the HF bands, there are three main mode divisions: CW, digital data modes, and SSB. Image modes such as SSTV are usually sent as SSB signals, so these modes can be used in the SSB band segments.

AM receives little use nowadays because it is less efficient than SSB and occupies twice as much bandwidth. But it can still be found, mainly on 160 metres and sometimes around 29 MHz.

On 10 metres, there is also a fourth category for FM. This mode is quite popular above 29 MHz, but it should not be used on lower frequencies because of its wide bandwidth. It should also be noted that most HF radios cannot comply with ACMA’s bandwidth limit of 6 kHz for FM operation on bands below 10 metres.

On the VHF-UHF bands, the grouping of modes is slightly different. The three main groups are:

- CW and SSB: the preferred modes for weak signal work, including digital DX modes using SSB bandwidths.
- FM: not suitable for weak signal work and not compatible with SSB or CW. This category also includes modes such as packet, which usually use FM mode on the VHF bands.
- ATV: requires a very large bandwidth but has a very low power density, so it needs an exclusive interference-free band segment.

Calling Frequencies

On the VHF bands, the band plans include calling frequencies. These frequencies are “meeting places” and should be used only to make initial contact before moving to another frequency. If you “hog” the calling frequency you will prevent others from making calls or hearing more distant stations that may appear on the frequency.

Beacons

Beacons give an indication of band conditions and provide a warning of DX openings. They also serve as test signals for receiver calibration and testing. There should be no other transmissions within the beacon segments or on their band edges. This applies even if you are hundreds of kilometres away from the nearest beacon!

On the VHF/UHF bands, beacon frequencies are allocated according to a geographic allocation plan with a frequency spacing of 2 kHz. Further details on beacon frequency allocations are available from the Technical Advisory Committee.

Satellite Segments

The band plans provide separate band segments for satellite operation. Satellite downlink bands should be kept clear of other transmissions at all times – right to the band edges. On bands where the satellite band joins an FM segment, there should be no FM operation on the bandedge.

FM Segments

FM operators can operate on any simplex channel or on unused repeater frequencies. The band plan SSB and beacon segments should be avoided at all times. It is also a good idea to avoid operating simplex on repeater input channels – you may unintentionally key up a distant repeater.

Further Information

The band plans are reviewed regularly, to keep up to date with changing patterns of activity. The band plans apply in all states, so any changes must be discussed and agreed in all states before they are adopted. If a proposed new application requires a change to the band plan, or if you are aware of any band planning problems in your area, please advise the Technical Advisory Committee.

Further information about technical standards, frequency allocation and licensing of unattended stations (including beacons, repeaters, links, gateways etc) is available on request from the Technical Advisory Committee.

Notes for 160 - 10 Metre Bands

Note 1: 160 Metres

DX operation has absolute priority between 1810 and 1840 kHz. Digital mode operation may occur up to 1815 kHz, but only for contacts with overseas stations that cannot operate below 1810 kHz. SSB operation may occur down to 1835 kHz, but only for contacts with overseas stations that cannot operate above 1840 kHz. Operation may vary from the band plan during times when all stations within working range are in full daylight.

Note 2: Modes

"Digital Data Modes" includes all modes such as RTTY, packet and Amtor, using FSK or PSK and with bandwidths up to 2 kHz. The SSB segment can also be used for digital voice modes and image transmission modes such as SSTV or Fax, using bandwidths up to 4 kHz, or for AM. On 10 metres, the recommended segment for AM is 29.0 - 29.1 MHz. Add the following to the list of frequencies.

Note 3: Beacons

The beacon segments should be kept clear of all other transmissions.

Note 4: Amateur Satellites

Amateur satellites may operate in the bands 7.0 - 7.1, 14.0 - 14.250, 18.068 - 18.168, 21.0 - 21.45, 24.89 - 24.99 and 28.0 - 29.7 MHz. Current satellites operate between 21.160 - 21.300 and 29.300 - 29.500 MHz. The 10 metre satellite segment should be kept clear of all other transmissions.

Note 5: FM Simplex

Maximum permitted bandwidth for FM is 16 kHz on 10 metres, and 6 kHz on lower bands. Most multimode transceivers cannot comply with the 6 kHz bandwidth limit and should not be used in FM mode below 10 metres. Please avoid operation on 29.300 or 29.500 MHz, as this can interfere with satellite downlinks.

Note 6: FM Repeaters

The standard repeater input frequencies are 29.52, 29.54, 29.56 and 29.58 MHz. Some overseas repeaters operate on 10 kHz spaced channels. Repeater offset is 100 kHz. Further details on repeater planning and frequency allocations are available from the Technical Advisory Committee.

Band Allocation

50 - 52 MHz	BROADCASTING	Primary Service
	AMATEUR	Secondary Service
52 - 54 MHz	AMATEUR	Primary Service

The band 45 - 52 MHz is allocated on a primary basis to the Broadcasting Service for television channel 0. Amateur operation below 52 MHz is permitted on the condition that no interference is caused to reception of Channel 0 television stations. In eastern call areas (VK1, 2, 3, & 4), operation is restricted to the band 50.000 - 50.300 MHz, using only CW (100 watts), SSB (100 watts) or FSK (30 watts). No operation is permitted within 120 km of main channel 0 stations, or within 60 km of translators which have their outputs or inputs on channel 0. Please refer to the ACMA Amateur Licence Conditions Determination (LCD) for full details of these restrictions.

53.500	National voice calling frequency
53.550 - 53.975	Repeater outputs

Note 1: Narrow Band Modes

This segment is reserved for modes such as CW, digital modes and SSB with bandwidths up to 4 kHz. Weak signal operation has absolute priority. International practice is to keep the segment below 50.150 MHz clear at all times for international DX operation, and to use 50.150 MHz and above for contacts within the country or region. Calling frequencies should be used only to make initial contact and then vacated as soon as possible. The calling frequencies are 50.110 MHz for international DX only, and 50.200 MHz for all other operation.

The following spot frequencies are recommended for digital DX operation using SSB-based modes:

50.220	Weak signal modes with bandwidths below 100 Hz, e.g. PSK and slow CW
50.225	Weak signal modes with bandwidths up to 500 Hz, e.g. MFSK, JT44 and similar
50.230	High speed meteor scatter modes with bandwidths up to 3 kHz, e.g. FSK441

Note 2: Beacons

The beacon segments should be kept clear of other transmissions. Beacon frequency spacing is 2 kHz.

On 50 MHz, beacons in the eastern states are confined to the DX window. The international beacon sub-band is 50.020 - 50.080 MHz. To reduce overcrowding in the lower end of the DX window, the following alternative frequencies for beacons have been adopted:

For call areas VK1, VK2, VK3, VK4, and VK7: 50.280 - 50.299 MHz.
For call areas VK5, VK6, VK8, VK9 and VK0: 50.300 - 50.319 MHz.

On 52 MHz, beacon frequencies are allocated on a call area basis, e.g. VK1: 52.410 - 52.419, VK2: 52.420 - 52.429 etc. Further details on beacon frequency allocations are available from the Technical Advisory Committee.

Note 3: FM Simplex

Channel spacing is 25 kHz. Channels reserved for special purposes should be kept clear of other operation.

Note 4: Repeaters

The repeater split is 1 MHz (negative offset) and the channel spacing is 25 kHz. Six repeater channels are reserved for exclusive use in the following call areas:

52.750 / 53.750 - VK5/8	52.800 / 53.800 - VK6
52.825 / 53.825 - VK7	52.850 / 53.850 - VK2
52.900 / 53.900 - VK3	52.950 / 53.950 - VK4

The remaining channels are available for use in any call area. Repeater channels are co-ordinated nationally to reduce the possibility of interstate sporadic E interference.

Note 1: Narrow Band Modes

This segment is reserved for modes such as CW, digital modes and SSB with bandwidths up to 4 kHz. Weak signal operation has absolute priority. Calling frequencies should be used only to make initial contact and then vacated as soon as possible. Please avoid any terrestrial operation within the EME segment.

The following spot frequencies are recommended for digital DX operation using SSB-based modes:

144.220 / .320 Weak signal modes with bandwidths below 100 Hz, e.g. PSK and slow CW

144.225 / .325 Weak signal modes with bandwidths up to 500 Hz, e.g. MFSK, JT44 and similar

144.230 / .330 High speed meteor scatter modes with bandwidths up to 3 kHz, e.g. FSK441

SSB operators should note that the segment 144.110 – 144.165 MHz is used in some countries for international digital mode EME operation.

The band 144.3 - 144.5 MHz is not an IARU recognised satellite band, however some frequencies in this segment may be used at times for space communications.

Note 2: Beacons

The beacon segment should be kept clear of other transmissions. Beacon frequencies are allocated on a call area basis, e.g. VK1: 144.410 - 144.419, VK2: 144.420 - 144.429 etc. Beacon frequency spacing is 2 kHz. Further details on beacon frequency allocations are available from the Technical Advisory Committee.

Note 3: Amateur Satellites

The satellite segment should be kept clear of all terrestrial operation.

Note 4: All Mode, Digital, Packet and FM Simplex Segments

Channel spacing is 25 kHz. Channels reserved for special purposes should be kept clear of other operation. The space shuttle frequencies on 144.950 and 145.550 MHz should be kept clear of all terrestrial operation.

Recommended simplex frequencies for digital modes such as D-Star is 145.125 MHz. Recommended frequencies for simplex IRLP repeater gateways are the channels between 145.325 and 145.400 MHz.

Note 5: FM Repeaters

Channel spacing is 25 kHz, and offset is 600 kHz. Inputs and outputs may be reversed but this is not recommended. Vacant repeater output frequencies can be used as simplex channels, but repeater inputs should be avoided.

The following channels are reserved for WICEN repeaters:

147.175	(all states)
147.125, 147.150	(NSW, Queensland)
146.925, 147.300	(Victoria)

Digital (D-STAR) repeaters will use frequencies on odd multiples of 12.5 kHz in between the existing 25 kHz spaced FM repeater channels. Frequency pairs to be allocated will be between 146.0375 - 146.3875 MHz input and 146.6375 - 146.9875 MHz output.

Note 6: Repeater Linking

Our licence conditions require tone access for repeaters that are linked to repeaters in certain other bands, to prevent transmissions from being relayed on frequencies that the operators are not entitled to use. CTCSS is also used to activate selective linking or for interference protection.

The following CTCSS tones have been adopted for repeater access:

91.5 Hz:	For use with repeaters fitted with CTCSS for interference protection.
141.3 or 146.2 Hz:	To activate links to repeaters on other VHF/UHF bands.
85.4 Hz:	To activate links to other bands that some operators are not permitted to use.

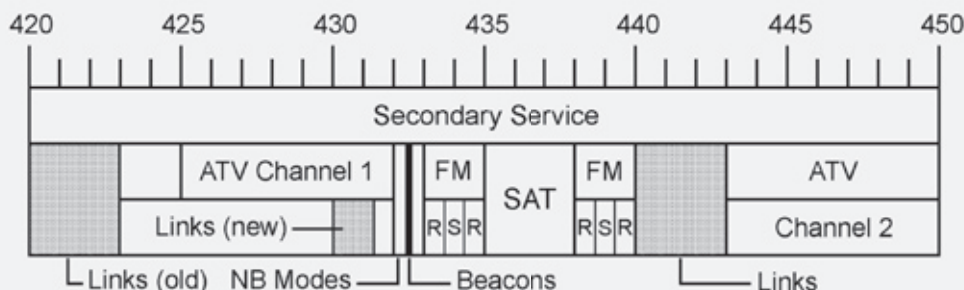

The previously recommended 123 Hz tone is no longer recommended for future repeaters due to problems with false detecting.

Note 1: Narrow Band Modes

This segment is reserved for modes such as CW, digital modes and SSB with bandwidths up to 4 kHz. Weak signal operation has absolute priority. Calling frequencies should be used only to make initial contact and then vacated as soon as possible. Please avoid any terrestrial operation within the EME segment. The "Digital DX modes" segments include recommended spot frequencies for SSB-based digital modes, on the same pattern as in Note 1 of the 2 metre band plan.

NOTE: Operating restrictions apply in parts of VK2, VK3 and VK6 where some or all of the 420 - 430 MHz band has been assigned to non-amateur services. Please refer to the current ACMA Amateur Licence Conditions Determination for details of operating restrictions.

Note 2: Beacons

The beacon segment should be kept clear of other transmissions. Beacon frequencies are allocated on a call area basis, e.g. VK1: 432.410 - 432.419, VK2: 432.420 - 432.429 etc. Beacon frequency spacing is 2 kHz. Further details on beacon frequency allocations are available from the Technical Advisory Committee.

Note 3: Amateur Satellites

The satellite segment should be kept clear of all terrestrial operation.

Note 4: LIPD Allocation

Stations operating between 433.050 and 434.790 MHz may experience interference from LIPDs ("Low Interference Potential Devices"). Repeaters have no protection from interference caused by LIPDs.

Note 5: FM Simplex

Channel spacing is 25 kHz. Channels reserved for special purposes should be kept clear of other operation.

This segment also includes recommended simplex frequencies for D-STAR digital simplex operation – primary channel 438.900, secondary 438.9125 and 438.8875 (12.5 kHz spacing).

Note 6: FM Repeaters

Channel spacing is 25 kHz, and offset is 5 MHz. Vacant repeater output frequencies can be used as simplex channels, but input frequencies should be avoided. Repeater channels reserved for WICEN portable repeaters: 438.275, 438.625, 439.925, 439.975 MHz.

Digital (D-STAR) repeaters will use channel pairs with output frequencies between 438.025 and 438.375 MHz, using a 5.4 MHz TX/RX offset. For areas where beacons are co-located with repeaters, D-STAR repeaters will be allocated to the upper end of the repeater segment, with 5 MHz offset and output frequencies on odd multiples of 12.5 kHz between 439.8125 and 439.9875 MHz.

Note 7: Repeater Links

Conditions apply as per Note 6 of the 2 metre band plan. The 420 MHz link segment is unavailable in areas where some or all of the 420 - 430 MHz band has been assigned to non-amateur services. Segments A and C are the preferred link segments for use at most link sites. Segments A and E are 12 MHz offset pairs for use at sites where repeaters are co-sited with TX low links. Segment D is preferred for 11 MHz offset pairs for use at sites with multiple co-sited links that require frequency separation in both the 430 and 440 MHz segments.

Note 8: Amateur Television

AM transmissions must be VSB only. Video carrier frequencies are: Channel 1 426.250 MHz, Channel 2 444.250 MHz. For digital ATV, the recommended standard is DVB-T using a 7 MHz bandwidth centred on 428.500 MHz (Channel 1) or 446.500 MHz (Channel 2). ATV Channel 1 is no longer used in states where 420 - 430 MHz restrictions apply.

Note 9: Reserved Segments

These band segments are reserved for possible future use in the event of further band allocation changes.

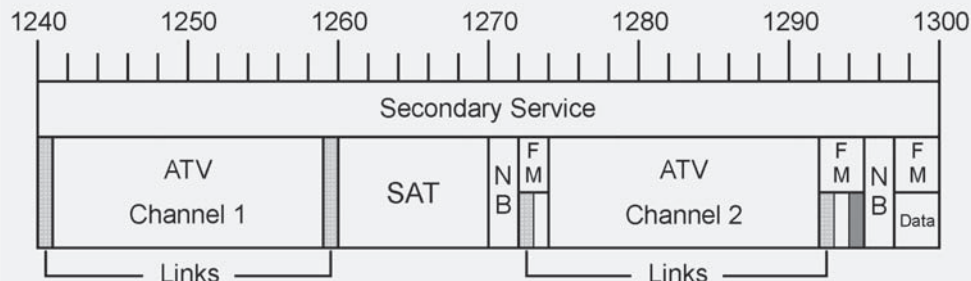

The 432.625 - 433.000 MHz segment is also used for digital repeater inputs.

Note 1: Narrow Band Modes

This segment is reserved for modes such as CW, digital modes and SSB with bandwidths up to 4 kHz. Weak signal operation has absolute priority. Calling frequencies should be used only to make initial contact and then vacated as soon as possible. Please avoid any terrestrial operation within the EME segment. The “Digital DX modes” segments include recommended spot frequencies for SSB-based digital modes, on the same pattern as in Note 1 of the 2 metre band plan.

The 1270 MHz segment is reserved for possible future use.

Note 2: Beacons

The beacon segment should be kept clear of other transmissions. Beacon frequencies are allocated on a call area basis, e.g. VK1: 1296.410 - 1296.419, VK2: 1296.420 - 1296.429 etc. Beacon frequency spacing is 2 kHz. Further details on beacon frequency allocations are available from the Technical Advisory Committee.

Note 3: Amateur Satellites

The satellite segment should be kept clear of all terrestrial operation.

Note 4: FM Simplex Segment

Channel spacing is 25 kHz. Channels reserved for special purposes should be kept clear of other operation.

Note 5: Simplex (Data) Segments

The 1297.025 – 1297.400 MHz segment is recommended for FM data modes, with 25 kHz channel spacing. The 1297.500 – 1297.900 MHz segment is recommended for D-Star simplex operation with 200 kHz channel spacing. The channels between 1298.100 and 1299.900 MHz are used for the simplex ports of D-Star repeaters.

Note 6: FM Repeaters

Channel spacing is 25 kHz, and the offset is 20 MHz.

Digital (D-Star) repeaters will be allocated frequencies spaced at 200 kHz intervals in the upper part of the repeater segment (primary frequency 1273.900 / 1293.900 MHz).

Note 7: Repeater Links

Two sets of link pairs are available, Group A on 1240/1259 MHz and Group B on 1272/1292 MHz. Wider offsets can be obtained with cross-group pairing, e.g. 1240 / 1292 MHz for a 52 MHz offset.

Note 8: Amateur Television

Both channels may be used for AM, FM or digital modes. Recommended uses are:

Channel 1:

Simplex or repeater inputs

FM or DVB	Maximum bandwidth +/- 9 MHz, centred on 1250 MHz
AM	Video 1242.250 MHz, audio 1247.750 MHz
AM	Video 1253.250 MHz, audio 1258.750 MHz

Channel 2:

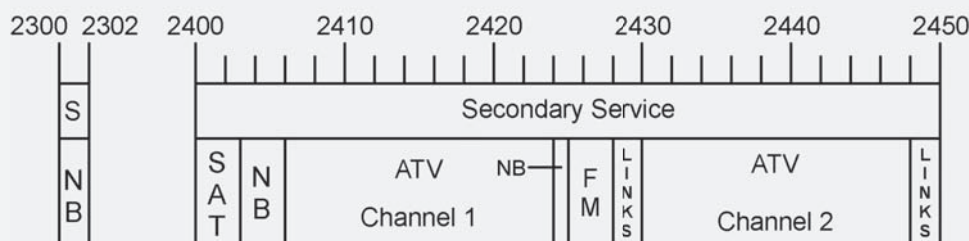

Simplex or repeater outputs
FM or DVB	Maximum bandwidth +/- 9 MHz, centred on 1283 MHz

Note 1: Narrow Band Modes

This segment is reserved for modes such as CW, digital modes and SSB with bandwidths up to 4 kHz. Weak signal operation has absolute priority. Calling frequencies should be used only to make initial contact and then vacated as soon as possible. Please avoid any terrestrial operation within the EME segment. The "Digital DX modes" segment includes recommended spot frequencies for SSB-based digital modes, on the same pattern as in Note 1 of the 2 metre band plan.

The 2403 MHz segment may have to be moved if required by future amateur satellite allocations. The 2424 MHz segment is reserved for possible use for EME contacts with Japan and New Zealand, which have their weak signal segments in this part of the band.

The segment 2300 – 2302 MHz is recommended for use in areas where the weak signal segment on 2403 MHz suffers unacceptable interference from digital links and other devices, and also for crossband EME contacts with overseas stations operating on 2304 MHz.

Note 2: Beacons

The beacon segment should be kept clear of other transmissions. Beacon frequencies are allocated on a call area basis, e.g. VK1: 2403.410 - 2403.419, VK2: 2403.420 - 2403.429 etc. Beacon frequency spacing is 2 kHz. Further details on beacon frequency allocations are available from the Technical Advisory Committee.

Note 3: Amateur Satellites

The satellite segment should be kept clear of all terrestrial operation.

Note 4: FM Simplex

Channel spacing is 25 kHz, or 100 kHz in the high speed data segment. Channels reserved for special purposes should be kept clear of other operation.

Note 5: FM Duplex

These segments are for duplex links with an offset of 20 MHz. Recommended channel spacing is 25 kHz, or 100 kHz for high speed data, with voice links in the lower half of the segment and data links in the upper half.

Note 6: Amateur Television

Both channels may be used for AM or FM, simplex or repeater operation. Satellites have absolute priority in the lower end of the band, and the availability of Channel 1 is conditional upon its not being required for future satellite use. Channel 2 is recommended as the primary channel. Recommended uses are:

Channel 1 (secondary): Simplex or repeater output.
FM or DVB centred on 2415 MHz (maximum bandwidth +/- 9 MHz), or AM (video 2415.000 MHz, audio 2420.500 MHz).

Channel 2 (primary): Simplex or repeater input
FM or DVB centred on 2439 MHz (maximum bandwidth +/- 9 MHz), or AM (video 2439.000 MHz, audio 2444.500 MHz).

Note 1: Narrow Band Modes

This segment is reserved for modes such as CW, digital modes and SSB with bandwidths up to 4 kHz. Weak signal operation has absolute priority. Calling frequencies should be used only to make initial contact and then vacated as soon as possible. Please avoid any terrestrial operation within the EME segment. The "Digital DX modes" segment includes recommended spot frequencies for SSB-based digital modes, on the same pattern as in Note 1 of the 2 metre band plan.

Beacon frequencies are allocated on a call area basis, e.g. VK1: 3400.410 - 3400.419, VK2: 3400.420 - 3400.429 etc. Beacon frequency spacing is 2 kHz. Further details on beacon frequency allocations are available from the Technical Advisory Committee.

Note 3: Amateur Satellites

There are no amateur satellites currently operating or planned for this band.

Note 4: FM Simplex

Recommended channel spacing is 100 kHz. Channels reserved for special purposes should be kept clear of other operation.

Note 5: Wideband Modes

These segments are for wideband simplex operation or duplex links. Suggested uses are:

ATV: FM ATV, DVB or AM. Video carrier at centre of channel. Maximum bandwidth for Channel 5 should be +/- 9 MHz. Recommended use for duplex links is channel 1 input and channel 8 output.

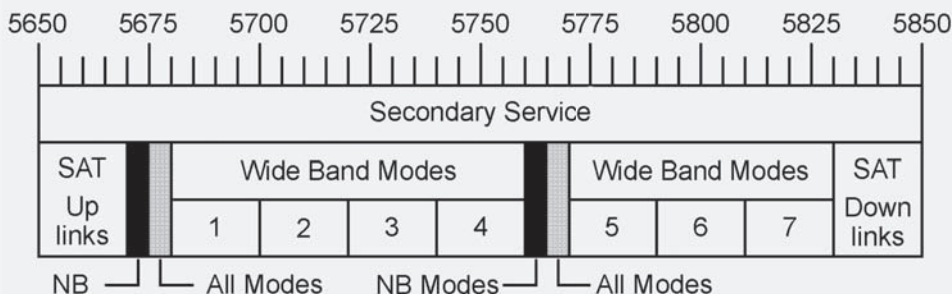

Data or Voice: Recommended channel spacing is 100 kHz, or 1 MHz for high speed data, excluding upper and lower segment edges, with voice links at the lower end of the segment and data links at the upper end.

Note 1: Narrow Band Modes

This segment is reserved for modes such as CW, digital modes and SSB with bandwidths up to 4 kHz. Weak signal operation has absolute priority. Calling frequencies should be used only to make initial contact and then vacated as soon as possible. Please avoid any terrestrial operation within the EME segment. The "Digital DX modes" segment includes recommended spot frequencies for SSB-based digital modes, on the same pattern as in Note 1 of the 2 metre band plan. The 5670 MHz segment is reserved for possible future use.

Note 2: Beacons

The beacon segment should be kept clear of other transmissions. Beacon frequencies are allocated on a call area basis, e.g. VK1: 5760.410 - 5760.419, VK2: 5760.420 - 5760.429 etc. Beacon frequency spacing is 2 kHz. Further details on beacon frequency allocations are available from the Technical Advisory Committee.

Note 3: Amateur Satellites

The satellite segments should be kept clear of all terrestrial operation.

Note 4: FM Simplex

Recommended channel spacing is 100 kHz. Channels reserved for special purposes should be kept clear of other operation. The segments at 5672 and 5673 MHz are reserved for possible future use.

Note 5: Wideband Modes

These segments are for wideband simplex operation or duplex links. Suggested uses are:

ATV: FM ATV, DVB or AM. Video carrier at centre of channel. Maximum bandwidth for Channel 4 should be +/- 9 MHz. Recommended use for duplex links is channel 1 input and channel 7 output.

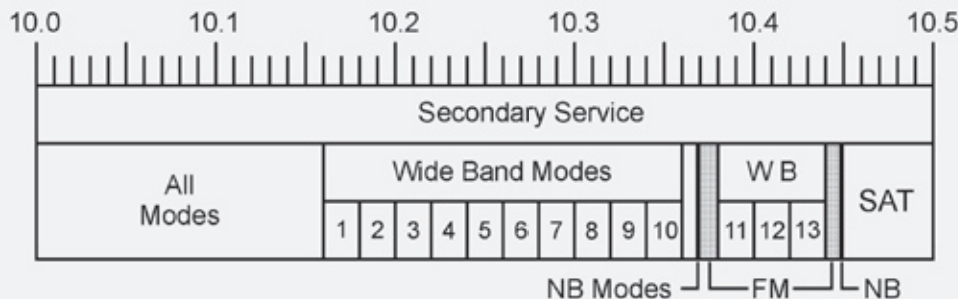

Data or Voice: Recommended channel spacing is 100 kHz, or 1 MHz for high speed data, excluding upper and lower segment edges. Duplex offset is 70 MHz.

Note 4: FM Simplex

Recommended channel spacing is 100 kHz. Channels reserved for special purposes should be kept clear of other operation.

Note 5: Wideband Modes

These segments are for wideband simplex operation or duplex links. A variety of duplex offsets between 60 and 220 MHz can be obtained by choosing the appropriate channel pairs. Suggested uses are:

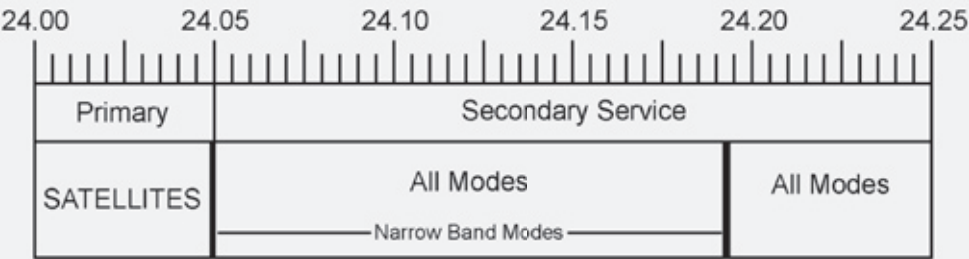

ATV: FM ATV, DVB or AM. Video carrier at centre of channel.

Data or Voice: Recommended channel spacing is 100 kHz, or 1 MHz for high speed data, excluding upper and lower segment edges.

23 RTTY - SSTV - voice repeater.
24 VK2RHR 146.825, VK2RMP 146.850, VK2RIS 146.975 and VK2RBT 146.675 are linked. All repeaters are linked to IRLP node 6018.
25 VK2RWG 146.750, VK2RBE 146.775, VK2RTD 146.800, VK2RGA 146.825 and VK2RGF 146.850 are linked.
26 VK2RST 147.225 is an SSTV / voice repeater.
27 VK2RRE 146.675 and VK2RET 146.825 are linked.
28 VK2RAG 438.075 is linked to VK2RYL 147.225 and to Illawarra link at VK2RMP. 91.5 Hz CTCSS access.
29 VK2RAP 147.275 and VK2RMM 147.375 are lomked. IRLP 6683, Echolink 414994.
30 VK2RSR 147.125 is turned on only when required for WICEN use.
31 VK2RSV 147.175 is a portable WICEN repeater. When not portable, operates from Vincentia at Jarvis Bay.
32 VK2RNS 147.250 and VK2RAT 439.975 are linked.
33 Directional antenna beaming north.
34 VK3RMN 146.850 and 439.450 are linked.
35 IRLP/Echolink node. VK3RFY 147.425 (single frequency) and 438.400 (negative offset) are linked.
36 VK3REB 146.900, VK3REM 147.150, and VK3REG 146.650 are linked.
37 VK3RNC 146.700, VK3RNE 147.000 and VK3RPB 147.100 are linked.
38 Proposed link between VK3RGS 147.025 and VK3RLV 146.800.
39 VK3RSR 146.975 and VK3RSS 439.975 are linked. No access tone required.
41 VK4RET 146.675 and VK4RBU 438.775 are linked.
42 VK4RBU 146.800 and VK4RGA 146.900 are linked.
43 VK4RSC 146.850 & VK4RSL 146.825 are linked
44 VK4RUU 147.650 and 438.450 are linked.
45 VK4RAI 146.900 and VK4RWM 438.375 are linked.
46 VK4RGC 146.700 and VK4RBQ 146.950 are permanently linked.
47 VK4RBD 146.950, VK4RHR 146.925 VK4RRR 146.975 VK4RSP 146.825 are linked.
48 Mackay repeaters VK4RMK 147.000 & 438.425, VK4RBM 146.775 & 439.300, will be linked.
49 VK4REG 53.625, 147.825 and 438.650 are linked. CTCSS 85.4 Hz required to activate 6mx from 2m or 70cm input.
50 VK4RSC 146.850, VK4RSL 146.825 – CTCSS is only turned on when interference present.
51 VK5RBV 146.825 and 439.800 are linked.
52 VK5RNC 146.650, VK5RMG 146.900, VK5RBT 147.350 and VK5RKN 147.375 are linked.
54 VK6RCT 147.200 and VK6RTH 438.225 are to be linked.
55 VK6RMS 147.250 and VK6RUF 438.525 are permanently linked.
56 VK6RSR 147.225 is a single-frequency "parrot" repeater.
57 VK6RAA 146.825 and VK6RAL 439.950 are permanently linked.
58 VK7RAA 147.000 and VK7RCH 438.575 are permanently linked.
59 VK7RWC 147.075 is permanently linked to VK7RAA via a link on 439.900 / 147.000.
60 VK7RAF 146.650 requires 123 Hz CTCSS for local access, or 141.3 Hz to activate link to VK7RNE 146.725 and VK7RAB 438.550. VK7RNE and VK7RAB are permanently linked.
- 61 VK7RAD 146.700 and VK7RHT 146.850 are linked. VK7RBI 147.300 is a simplex gateway linked to these repeaters.
62 VK7RAD 147.975 has its receiver located remotely from the Queens Domain at Mt Rumney.
63 VK8RWI 146.800 and 439.975 is a WICEN portable repeater. When not portable it is located at Berrimah.
64 VK2RSV 439.325 and VK3RSV 439.425 are linked via Echolink.
65 VK1RBM Isaacs Ridge has IRLP Node 6110 on the UHF frequency 438.950 MHz.
66 VK1RMT ? (Proposed 146.725 MHz on Mt Tennent) will have IRLP Node 6336.
67 VK2RGN 438.325, and VK1RGI 438.050 are linked.
68 VK3RUG 438.175, VK3RMG 439.950 and VK3RLE 428.125 are permanently linked.
69 VK2RAG 439.725 is a combined Morse practice beacon and voice repeater. Use 91.5 Hz CTCSS to access the repeater. Reverts to Morse beacon operation after 3 minutes without any voice activity.
70 VK4RZA 438.100, VK4RZB 438.200 and 1273.400, VK4RZC 438.125, VK4RZD 438.050 and VK4RZG 438.475 are linked, 91.5 Hz CTCSS access.
71 VK2RAG 439.725 is a combined Morse practice beacon and voice repeater. Use 91.5 Hz CTCSS to access the repeater. Reverts to Morse beacon operation after 3 minutes without any voice activity.
72 VK4RBO 439.300, VK4RNC 439.625 and VK2RNR 438.550 are permanently linked.
73 VK7RAA and VK7RWC on 439.900 are simplex repeaters linking the 2 meter repeaters on these sites.
74 VK7RIN on 439.950 is a simplex link to VK7RAA linking only outgoing traffic from VK7RAD for broadcast link purposes.
75 VK3RPS 1273.650 and VK3RMN 1273.450 are to be permanently linked when VK3RMN becomes operational.
76 VK2RMB 438.175 MHz supports FM and P25 modes.
78 CTCSS free access will be maintained at reduced sensitivity as long as LIPD interference permits. CTCSS required for maximum range.
79 VK3RLV 23 cm repeater is horizontally polarised.
80 AM in, AM out.
81 FM in, AM out.
82 AM in, FM out.
83 FM in, FM out.
84 VK3RTV-1 has inputs on 1250 MHz FM and 1255 MHz DVB-S. VK3RTV-2 has inputs on 1278 MHz DVB-S and 10.41 GHz FM. Output is DVB-T. Liaison frequency 147.400 MHz.
85 VK5RWH input requires vertical polarisation. Liaison 147.350 MHz relayed to TV sound.
86 Voice liaison 440.150 MHz.
87 VK5RTV liaison 147.450 MHz relayed to TV sound.
89 VK4RKC can operate on any of 426.250, 1250, 2415 and 2439 MHz. Installation can be commanded to receive and transmit on any of its frequencies, using VSB, FM or digital input or output.
90 VK3RWN B, VK2RWN B, VK4RGC B, VK2RDS B, VK6RWN B are linked.
91 Note negative offset.
92 Note positive offset
93 Note unusual offset.
94 Note 5.4 MHz offset used by D-STAR repeaters.
99 Frequency is not consistent with the band plan.

Analog Television Standards

Channel width: 7 MHz.

Video: AM, negative modulation, VSB with carrier 1.25 MHz above lower channel limit.

Raster 625 lines, 2:1 interlace, 4:3 aspect ratio, line freq. 15.625 kHz, field freq. 50 Hz.

Colour subcarrier: 4.43361875 MHz above video carrier.

Sound: FM, 50 kHz deviation, 50 uS pre-emphasis.

Primary sound subcarrier: 5.4996 MHz above video carrier. Secondary subcarrier: 5.7417875 MHz.

Sound carrier levels: Mono 10 dB below vision carrier. Stereo primary carrier -13 dB, secondary -20 dB.

- Notes
- Channels 0, 1 and 2 will be phased out with the introduction of digital television, which operates only on channels 6 - 12 and 28 - 69. Analog TV transmissions were to close by September 2008, but a date in 2010-2013 is more likely.
 - Most main stations operating on channels 3, 4, 5 and 5A have already been phased out.
 - Channel 9A: New channel.
 - Channel 10: Existing stations to move up from 208 – 215 MHz.
 - Channel 11: Existing stations to move up from 215 – 222 MHz.

Channel 0 and 5A Stations

This list may be useful for amateurs wishing to use channel 0 or 5A transmitters as propagation indicators for 6 or 2 metres. For 6 metres, it also serves as a reminder of the areas where operation below 52 MHz is prohibited (within 120 km of a main channel 0 station, or within 60 km of a translator that has its input or output on channel 0).

Carrier frequencies are listed for the video carrier, primary sound carrier and secondary sound carrier, rounded to the nearest kHz. The Australian standards for sound carrier frequencies and power are:

Primary sound carrier: 5499.6 kHz above the video carrier and power 13 dB less;
 Secondary sound carrier: 5741.7875 kHz above the video carrier and power 20 dB less.

Phonetics

When using telephony, particularly under adverse operating conditions, words and callsigns may be misunderstood because of phonetic similarity. To overcome this difficulty, phonetic alphabets are used. The following is the one recommended for use by ACMA:

Phonetic Alphabet

Let	Code Word	Spoken As
A	ALFA	AL fah
B	BRAVO	BRAH voh
C	CHARLIE	CHAH lee or SHAR lee
D	DELTA	DELL tah
E	ECHO	ECK oh

Procedure Signals

AR -	End of Message
AS -	Wait (Stand by)
BK -	Break. I wish to interrupt transmission
BT -	Pause
CL -	Closing down (going off air)
CQ -	Calling any station
K -	Go ahead. Invite any station to transmit
KN -	Invite specific station only to transmit
R -	All received OK
SK -	End of contact (sent before final callsign IDs)

Spacing and Length

A dash is equal to three dots.

The space between the dots and dashes which form the same character is equal to one dot.

The space between two characters is equal to three dots.

The space between two words is equal to seven dots.

The RST System

This system of radio signal reporting is used on both CW and phone, leaving out the “Tone” report on voice.

Readability

- 1 Unreadable.
- 2 Rarely readable, occasional words distinguishable.
- 3 Readable with considerable difficulty.
- 4 Readable with practically no difficulty.
- 5 Perfectly readable.

Signal Strength

- 1 Faint signals, barely perceptible
- 2 Very weak signals
- 3 Weak signals
- 4 Fair signals
- 5 Fairly good signals
- 6 Good signals
- 7 Moderately strong signals
- 8 Strong signals
- 9 Extremely strong signals

Tone

- 1 Fifty cycle AC or less, very rough and broad
- 2 Very rough AC, very harsh and broad
- 3 Rough AC tone, rectified but not filtered
- 4 Rough note, some trace of filtering
- 5 Filtered rectified AC but strongly ripple-modulated
- 6 Filtered tone, definite trace of ripple modulation
- 7 Near pure tone, trace of ripple modulation
- 8 Near perfect tone, slight trace of modulation
- 9 Perfect tone, no trace of ripple or modulation of any kind

Q Codes

QRA	The name of my station is ...	QRO	Increase power.	QSB	Your signals are fading.
QRG	Your exact frequency (or that of ..) is ... kHz.	QRP	Decrease power.	QSK	I can hear you between my signals; break in on my transmission.
QRH	Your frequency varies.	QRQ	Send faster (... words per minute).	QSL	I am acknowledging receipt.
QRI	The tone of your transmission is (1 = Good; 2 = Variable 3 = Bad).	QRS	Send more slowly (... words per minute).	QSO	I can communicate with ... direct (or by relay through ...).
QRK	The intelligibility of your signals is (1 = Bad; 2=Poor;3 = Fair; 4 =Good; 5 = Excellent).	QRT	Stop sending.	QSP	I will relay to ...
QRL	I am busy. Please do not interfere.	QRU	I have nothing for you.	QSX	I am listening to ... on ... kHz.
QRM	Your transmission is being interfered with ... (1 = Nil; 2 = Slightly; 3 = Moderately; 4 = Severely; 5 = Extremely).	QRV	I am ready.	QSY	Change to transmission on another frequency (or on ... kHz).
QRN	I am troubled by static ... (1 = Nil; 2 = Slightly; 3 = Moderately; 4 = Severely; 5 = Extremely).	QRW	Please inform ... that I am calling on ... kHz.	QSZ	Send each word or group twice
		QRX	I will call you again at... hours (on ... kHz).	QTC	I have ... messages for you (or for ...)
		QRZ	Who is calling me?	QTH	My location is ... (QTHR is location as per Callbook).
		QSA	The strength of your signals is ... (1 = Scarcely perceptible; 2 = Weak; 3 = Fairly good; 4 = Good; 5 = Very good).	QTR	The time is ...
